Doctor Says Rest Doing Ike "Good"

Visit May Be Factor To Eisenhower's Seeking Second Term

KEY WEST, Fla. Jan. 6 (AP)—The word from President Eisenhower's doctor today was that the President is getting "a world of good" out of a Florida visit intended to condition him for resumption of a full work load.

The report was relayed to newsmen by the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, who has been here with Eisenhower since the party arrived from Washington Dec. 28.

Recommended Outdoors

The President, recuperating from a September heart attack, came to Key West after his doctors recommended that he get more sun and outdoor exercise.

They wanted to get that in before he takes on about a normal work load after his return to Washington. The present plan is for the President to leave here by plane for the capital Sunday afternoon.

Newsmen today asked James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, for his views on how the Florida sun may have benefitted Eisenhower. Hagerty's reply was that Dr. Snyder believes the stay is doing the President "a world of good."

The visit could be an important factor in Eisenhower's decision on whether to seek a second term.

As on most other days here, the President today mixed some work with relaxation. He turned up at his office at 8:40 a.m. and spent two hours with Secretary of Agriculture Benson going over the special farm message to be sent to Congress Monday.

Signs Two Orders

At his office today Eisenhower also signed two executive orders to carry out a 1955 law dealing with Selective Service.

Under one, draft registrants with certain critical skills—radar mechanic, for example—now are permitted to apply to their draft boards for three to six months of active duty. If the board approves the application, the draftee then can transfer to the ready reserve for the rest of an eight-year obligation in the service.

The other order authorizes transfer of draftees with critical skills from the ready reserve to the standby reserve when more than enough qualified specialists already are available for the ready group.

Rita Settles Out Of Court

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP)—Rita Hayworth and Columbia Pictures today took a federal judge's advice and settled a breach of contract suit out of court.

The Los Angeles Mirror-News reported that both sides agreed to drop the case, paving the way for Rita's return to work in the musical version of "Pal Joey."

The actress had sued her bosses for $150,000 and the studio countersued for the same amount.

Much of the testimony at the four-day hearing last week pictured crooner Dick Haymes, her divorced husband, as the troublemaker in the dispute. Judge Ben Harrison, in fact, commented from the bench:

"I have the impression that Mr. Haymes really is the source of all the trouble in this case. I hope both parties will settle this matter themselves."

She will return to work at her old salary of $12,500 a week and a second picture based on the life of Isadora Duncan will be produced by her own company and released by Columbia.

Raymond Hakim, Rita's current romantic interest and an Egyptian-born producer, will produce the Duncan biography.

The candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination will play records on a half-hour program for the March of Dimes, Saturday, Jan. 14. The station said Stevenson will introduce records requested by listeners who pledge money to the March of Dimes.

First Fatality In South Polar Region Reported

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — A tractor being used in antarctic exploration went through a crack in the ice and carried the driver to his presumed death, the Navy reported today.

It was apparently the first fatality of this year's expedition to the South Polar region.

A message received from the expedition now at McMurdo Sound said that Richard Thomas B. Williams is "presumed dead" after the tractor he was driving went through a crack and disappeared beneath the ice.

He is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, Ilion, N.Y. He was a member of the Special Mobile Construction Battalion assigned the duty of blazing trails and laying out runways on the South Polar ice.

The Navy report said the accident occurred about 20 feet away from a bridge that had been constructed over an ice crack and that the tractor drive by Williams had crossed the bridge just before the ice opened beneath him. The depth of water at this point beneath the ice is about 100 fathoms, the Navy said. A fathom is equal to 6 feet.

Earlier today the task force in the antarctic reported that military scientists had "overcome the greatest threat" to trail blazing in polar regions by testing an Army engineer's crevasse detector at Little America. The official Navy release on this development said the scientists had found the detector "100 per cent successful."

A crevasse is an open chasm in the ice that is usually covered by snow and difficult to detect. Parties venturing in arctic regions, whether on foot, in sleds or riding in tractors live in constant fear of falling into the sometimes nearly bottomless pits.

Jordan Cabinet To Be Formed

AMMAN, Jordan, Jan. 6 (AP) — Premier Ibrahim Hashem's caretaker government is expected to step down tomorrow with the formation of a new cabinet. Reports today said Hashem and his colleagues had already submitted their resignations to King Hussein.

The pending government shift is an outgrowth of a court ruling Wednesday that dissolution of Parliament last month was unconstitutional. The dissolution was ordered Dec. 20 after riots throughout the country protesting Jordan's possible entry into the Western-supported Baghdad Alliance. The then Premier, Hazza el Majali, resigned.

United States Duns Russia For Aircraft

$1,449,895 Bill Sent For Shooting Down Of Patrol Bomber

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) —

For shooting down one U.S. plane . . . $1,449,895.36.

Less 50 per cent discount due to special circumstances . . . $724,947.68.

Total due . . . $724,947.68.

That was the bill handed to Soviet Russia by the United States today for the shooting down in flames of a two-engine Neptune patrol plane over the Bering Sea last June 22.

All 11 crew members suffered injuries ranging from bullet wounds to burns and shock. Seven required hospital treatment.

Russia and the United States blamed each other for the incident. Secretary of State Dulles accepted Russia's offer to pay half the damages while "not condoning the illegality of the Soviet conduct."

Preparations Underway

Preparations were under way at the time for the July summit conference of Big Four powers in Geneva, and Dulles' acceptance of the Russian offer was viewed as an effort to smooth the path. Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) called it a desire to create "as friendly an atmosphere as possible" for the Big Four meeting.

In making the Russian offer last June 26, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov cited heavy cloud conditions which made visibility poor. He said this did not "exclude the possiblity of a mistake from one side or the other."

Molotov insisted the U.S. plane was inside Soviet territory and opened fire when approached by Russian jet fighters. He expressed regret at the incident.

The State Department denied the American plane had violated the Russian frontier, maintaining it at no time was any closer to Russia than midway over the Bering Sea channel which separates Alaska from Russia. It crash-landed on St. Lawrence Island.

Repeats Contention

In today's note containing the bill, the United States repeated its contention that the attack was unprovoked. Secretary Dulles said the half payment offer was accepted "because of the special circumstances surrounding the incident."

The U.S. note was delivered to Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and made public by the State Department. A breakdown of damages in round figures made available by the State Department included: cost of the Neptune plane $294,700; value of plane equipment destroyed $95,645; cost of search and rescue $3,000; costs to U.S. government resulting from crewmen's injuries and disabilities $335,674; personal injuries to crew members $90,000; loss of personal property aboard the plane $875.

At that time, Lt. Richard H. Fischer of Pittsburgh, Pa., said the attack came without warning.

"We didn't have time to fire back," he said.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said he understood the $90,000 for personal injuries would be distributed among the injured crewmen, but he said he had no details.

Dulles' note requested that the $724,947 be made payable in U.S. dollars.

Wife, 10 Children Of AF Sergeant Sent To Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 6 (AP)—A grinning U. S. Air Force sergeant had a happy reunion with his wife and 10 children when they arrived here tonight by plane from the United States.

S.Sgt. Guilford E. Medor, 33, of Swanton, Vt., met them with a 37-passenger bus to take them to his "double" quarters at nearby Wiesbaden.

"The Air Force had to knock a hole in a wall and build a connecting door between a four-room and a three-room apartment to take care of us all," he said. "We're the biggest Air Force family here."

Stepping off the plane were his wife, Catherine, 31, and children: Franklin 14, Eleanor 13, Linda 12, Ralph 10, Loris 9, Mary Ann 8, Connie 7, Carlotta 6, Perley 3, and Corrine, 3 months old. An Air Force buddy patted Medor on the back and commented: "Some people will do anything to get their pictures in the papers."

Medor was transferred to Germany last August.

"At first the Air Force didn't want to move such a big family over here, but they finally came through," Medor said.

The sergeant draws $275 monthly.

"That stretches a little thin at times but we make out all right," Medor said.

He buys eggs by the crate and potatoes by the 50-pound sack. His grocery bill averages $48 a week.

"When Catherine and I got married 15 years ago we set out to have 12 children—six boys and six girls," he told reporters. "We've got four boys and six girls now. You can say we still are aiming for the same goal."

Probers Conclude Hearings On Reds In Newspaper Field

Times Editor Admits Joining Commie Party

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of The New York Times, testified today he was a Communist party member for about a year while a graduate student at Columbia University in the 1930s.

He acknowledged he had made "a tragic mistake" and cautioned present day students against the same error.

Dr. Fine was the final witness as the Senate Internal Security subcommittee closed out three days of public hearings into alleged Communist infiltrations of the press and other news fields.

Fine Is Praised

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) praised Dr. Fine as "a fine citizen" and a "credit to your business."

When the hearings ended, Eastland and Jenner issued a joint statement in which they said the hearings "disclosed many things, including a significant effort on the part of the Communists to penetrate leading American newspapers."

Eastland and Jenner said witnesses who were frank and testified freely "performed a patriotic service for which we are grateful." They hinted at contempt proceedings against some witnesses who refused to answer questions:

Testimony today included:

1. There was a Red cell on the New York Herald Tribune in the 1940s.

2. Two witnesses who today invoked the Fifth Amendment privilege against compulsory self-incrimination were fired by The New York Times after they indicated they would take this course.

Two Lost Jobs

Those who said they had lost their jobs were Nathan Aleskovsky, until recently assistant Book Review editor of the Sunday Times, and Jack Shafer, a copyreader.

All of the witnesses today were from the Times. They were, in order of taking the stand:

1. Robert Shelton, a copyreader, who refused to say whether he is or has been a Communist and challenged the right of the subcommittee to inquire into his associations and beliefs.

2. Alden Whitman, also a copyreader, who readily admitted he was a Communist between 1935 and 1948, but refused to name his Red associates.

3. Aleskovsky, who described himself as "unemployed." He swore he is not now a Communist but refused to say whether he had ever been. He said Lester Markel, Sunday editor of the Times, told him "under the circumstances he didn't think I ought to work there and I could resign or be fired." Whereupon, he said, Markel told him he "had resigned."

4. Matilda Landsman, a linotype operator on the Times, who invoked the Fifth Amendment repeatedly. She refused to say whether she is a Communist, whether she knew people who have been linked with communism, or where she had been employed before becoming a Times linotype operator about a year ago.

Peck Was Member

5. Seymour Peck, employed on the Times Sunday Magazine, who said he was a member of the Communist party from 1935 until 1949. He said he left the party before joining the Times. He said he was a member of Red units on the New York Star and PM, newspapers no longer in existence. Peck declined to name one-time Red associates.

Whitman reluctantly testified that there was a small Red cell on the New York Herald Tribune, where he worked before joining the Times.

Eastland and Jenner said in their statement that the subcommittee in its pursuit of the trail of Communist activity "has been fully cognizant in its study to avoid any step which could fairly be interpreted as an effort to exercise congressional pressure upon the American press."

Soviet President Visits Buchenwald

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—Soviet President Klementi Y. Voroshilov visited the former Nazi concentration camp at Buchenwald today.

The official Communist East German news agency ADN said he laid a wreath to the camp's 56,000 "cruelly murdered" victims. Voroshilov then inspected the camp's crematorium and a museum.

Witnesses In Red Probe

Monroney Says Ike's Speech Forgot Aviation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) charged today that a Cabinet-level report on federal transportation policy, praised by President Eisenhower yesterday, completely overlooked aviation.

Monroney, chairman of the Senate Aviation subcommittee, said aviation is an extremely important part of the U. S. transportation picture and no general report on transportation would be complete without it.

However, a Monroney query about an "airline protest" against the report brought to light the fact that the Air Transport Assn., composed of scheduled airlines, had not expected or wanted aviation mentioned in the report. It said that subject had been covered throughly in another report.

Monroney, questioning Frederick B. Lee, recently discharged as civil aeronautics administrator, brought out that Lee had not been consulted in the preparation of the report even though, at the time, he headed the farflung Operations of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Monroney asked the committee counsel, Frank Pellegrini, to "begin negotiations at the summit" with the Commerce Department to find out why the transportation report failed to mention aviation.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks was chairman of the advisory committee which made the transportation report to the President last April. Monroney has declared, during the subcommittee's investigation of Lee's discharge, that Weeks and Commerce Undersecretary Louis Rothschild are "groundminded" and tried to exercise presidential authority to fire Lee and strengthen their control of the CAA.

Monroney introduced legislation Thursday to take the CAA out of the Commerce Department and make it an independent agency directly under the President.

In his State of the Union message Thursday, Eisenhower recalled that he had appointed an advisory committee to report on "the deficiencies as well as the effectiveness of existing federal transportation policies."

"I have recommended the fundamental purposes and objectives of the committee's report," Eisenhower said.

"I earnestly recommend that the Congress give prompt attention to the committee's proposals."

Bing Crosby Donates To Library Fund

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 6 (AP) — Crooner Bing Crosby has added $100,000 to the trust fund for a "Crosby Memorial Library" at Gonzaga University, his alma mater, the school announced today.

His gifts brings the fund total to about $241,900 and was Crosby's second contribution this week.

Ice Age Tree Stump Found, Delays A-Plant

FT. BELVOIR, Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—The discovery of a tree stump dating back to the ice age halted work briefly on an experimental atomic power plant under construction here, Army engineers said today.

Two men, one a geologist, spotted the stump as foundations for the plant were being dug. They yelled for workmen to stop so the stump could be removed carefully.

Dr. Roland Brown, a paleobotanist for the U. S. Geological Survey, later estimated the stump was 80 million to 130 million years old.

Officer Given 12-Year Term

FT. BELVOIR, Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—A 32-year-old Army officer drew 12 years at hard labor today from a nine-member general court-martial for the wounding of blond 18-year-old Sylvia V. Miller Oct. 15 and related offenses.

1st Lt. George E. Balcom Jr. shot Miss Miller three times as she emerged with her escort from the officers' club here. He was also charged with wounding a bystander, with slugging Miss Miller in his apartment near Alexandria last August, and with giving false information in registering her as his wife at the post hospital.

The court deliberated two hours today after hearing an appeal for leniency from Balcom and before pronouncing sentence.

Conant Returns

Britain's Worst Fog In 3 Years Begins To Disappear

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Britain's worst fog in three years lifted from London tonight, but the smoke-laden pall still drifted over 25 English counties.

Government scientists started analyzing samples collected by 450 "smog tasters" who prowled the grimy capital yesterday to find any hidden dangers in the reeking fumes.

Britons have been specially smog-conscious since 1952, when a choking yellow fog claimed the lives of 4,000 sufferers from chest and heart diseases.

Hospitals reported the current fog, which set in three days ago, also brought an increase in breathing troubles, but nothing like the big one.

Traffic disruption, however, looked worse this time than in 1952. The fog spread wider and trains and trucks in eastern and midland districts tonight still were kept down to a crawl.

London's shipping got moving down the Thames again. The big northern ports of Liverpool, Hull and Middlesbrough still were fogbound.

The weatherman pondered the future and wound up noncommittal. In some places he said, the fog probably would disperse. In others, it might not.

The fog was attributed officially to a layer of still, warm air overlaying a ground layer of cold, moist air. London's millions of chimneys funneled soot, sulphur dioxide and other coal fire by-products into the grey mist. Mild northeast winds finally freed the city.

Air Force Gives Added Contract For B52 Bombers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Air Force announced today an additional contract for 248 million dollars worth of B52 heavy bombers.

The planes will be produced at both Seattle, Wash., and Wichita, Kan., plants of the Boeing Airplane Co., the announcement said.

A spokesman said the announcement did not mean an increase in the eventual total number of the long-range, high-speed, all-jet bombers, but merely represented one more order in the over-all B52 procurement program.

The Air Force has never officially disclosed the total number of B52s it plans to acquire.

However, the program calls for an eventual force of 11 wings of B52s. The total number of planes needed to equip that many wings and provide spares might be between 400 and 500 aircraft.

The cost of a B52 is about eight million dollars. The amount of the contract announced today would equip one wing, which requires 30 planes, plus the necessary spare parts.

The Air Force over a year ago began stepping up its B52 production plans, arranging with Boeing to start producing the big bombers at Wichita as well as at Seattle. The first B52 came off the "second source" Seattle plant about a month ago.

West Germany Hails Eisenhower's Speech

BONN, Germany, Jan. 6 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government today hailed the "decisive interest" in Germany voiced by President Eisenhower in his State of the Union message.

The President spoke of the "oppressive division of the German people" and said the United States will "seek to maintain the pressure of world opinion" to unite Germany.

Chinese Shunt Aside Efforts For Release

Declaration Dampens Hopes For Prompt Far East Settlement

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Red China shunted aside today U.S. State Department efforts to speed the release of 13 Americans still in Chinese jails.

A government statement broadcast by Peiping radio said the Mao Tze-tung regime would deal with the Americans when and how it saw fit and "no foreign interference would be allowed."

Scorning Washington's charge that Peiping has violated a Sept. 10 agreement to free all Americans "expeditiously," the statement said:

Will Be Dealt With

"Americans who offended against the law in China must be dealt with in accordance with Chinese legal procedures, and no time limit can be set for their release."

The toughly worded declaration dampened hopes in London that the Chinese Reds would smooth the way to a Far East settlement through prompt release of the remaining Americans in prison. U.S. Secretary of State Dulles has made it plain that release of the Americans must come before the United States will enter into any agreement with Red China on other issues dividing the two countries.

The Communist broadcast renewed Peiping's demand for an early conference between Dulles and Red China Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai "to discuss relaxation and elimination of tension" in the Formosa area. It called for a speedy end to the Western embargo on shipment of strategic goods to Red China.

Warns Of Breakdown

The statement warned the United States to move quickly toward agreement on these issues or face breakdown of the Geneva negotiations between Red China's Wang Ping-nan and U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson. The Geneva talks have been going on sporadically for five months and it was there that the Sept. 10 agreement on release of prisoners was announced.

"The Chinese side will continue to work for an agreement," today's statement said. "However, the Chinese people will not consent to the endless dragging out of the Sino-American talks."

Navy Destroyer Still Aground

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—The Navy will try again during the middle of the night to pull its 3,000-ton escort destroyer Basilone from the mud off the Cape Henry beach near here.

Today was spent in freeing the distressed vessel of 120 tons of ammunition and 120,000 gallons of fuel oil to lighten her and reduce her normal draft of 19 feet about two feet. She blew aground from her anchorage in high winds yesterday.

It was just six years ago this month that the Navy was embarrassed by the grounding of the battleship Missouri, then the only battleship on active duty, just a few miles away. The "Big Mo" was under way when she slammed into the bottom Jan. 17, 1950. She resisted all efforts to free her until Feb. 1.

The Basilone also resisted efforts to tug her loose made at high tides yesterday and early this morning. The next effort was scheduled for 2:30 a.m. Saturday morning. Three salvage ships and two Army barcs, large amphibious vehicles, pulled and pushed on the escort destroyer but in vain.

Total due ... $724,947.68.

That was the bill handed to Soviet Russia by the United States today for the shooting down in flames of a two-engine Neptune patrol plane over the Bering Sea last June 22.

All 11 crew members suffered injuries ranging from bullet wounds to burns and shock. Seven required hospital treatment.

Russia and the United States blamed each other for the incident. Secretary of State Dulles accepted Russia's offer to pay half the damages while "not condoning the illegality of the Soviet conduct."

Preparations Underway

Preparations were under way at the time for the July summit conference of Big Four powers in Geneva, and Dulles' acceptance of the Russian offer was viewed as an effort to smooth the path. Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) called it a desire to create "as friendly an atmosphere as possible" for the Big Four meeting.

In making the Russian offer last June 26, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov cited heavy cloud conditions which made visibility poor. He said this did not "exclude the possiblity of a mistake from one side or the other."

Molotov insisted the U.S. plane was inside Soviet territory and opened fire when approached by Russian jet fighters. He expressed regret at the incident.

The State Department denied the American plane had violated the Russian frontier, maintaining it at no time was any closer to Russia than midway over the Bering Sea channel which separates Alaska from Russia. It crash-landed on St. Lawrence Island.

Repeats Contention

In today's note containing the bill, the United States repeated its contention that the attack was unprovoked. Secretary Dulles said the half payment offer was accepted "because of the special circumstances surrounding the incident."

The U.S. note was delivered to Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and made public by the State Department. A breakdown of damages in round figures made available by the State Department included: cost of the Neptune plane $294,700; value of plane equipment destroyed $95,645; cost of search and rescue $3,000; costs to U.S. government resulting from crewmen's injuries and disabilities $335,674; personal injuries to crew members $90,000; loss of personal property aboard the plane $875.

At that time, Lt. Richard H. Fischer of Pittsburgh, Pa., said the attack came without warning.

"We didn't have time to fire back," he said.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said he understood the $90,000 for personal injuries would be distributed among the injured crewmen, but he said he had no details.

Dulles' note requested that the $724,947 be made payable in U.S. dollars.

Wife, 10 Children Of AF Sergeant Sent To Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 6 (AP)—A grinning U. S. Air Force sergeant had a happy reunion with his wife and 10 children when they arrived here tonight by plane from the United States.

S.Sgt. Guilford E. Medor, 33, of Swanton, Vt., met them with a 37-passenger bus to take them to his "double" quarters at nearby Wiesbaden.

"The Air Force had to knock a hole in a wall and build a connecting door between a four-room and a three-room apartment to take care of us all," he said. "We're the biggest Air Force family here."

Stepping off the plane were his wife, Catherine, 31, and children: Franklin 14, Eleanor 13, Linda 12, Ralph 10, Loris 9, Mary Ann 8, Connie 7, Carlotta 6, Perley 3, and Corrine, 3 months old. An Air Force buddy patted Medor on the back and commented: "Some people will do anything to get their pictures in the papers."

Medor was transferred to Germany last August.

"At first the Air Force didn't want to move such a big family over here, but they finally came through," Medor said.

The sergeant draws $275 monthly.

"That stretches a little thin at times but we make out all right," Medor said.

He buys eggs by the crate and potatoes by the 50-pound sack. His grocery bill averages $48 a week.

"When Catherine and I got married 15 years ago we set out to have 12 children—six boys and six girls," he told reporters. "We've got four boys and six girls now. You can say we still are aiming for the same goal."

Probers Conclude Hearings On Reds In Newspaper Field

Times Editor Admits Joining Commie Party

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of The New York Times, testified today he was a Communist party member for about a year while a graduate student at Columbia University in the 1930s.

He acknowledged he had made "a tragic mistake" and cautioned present day students against the same error.

Dr. Fine was the final witness as the Senate Internal Security subcommittee closed out three days of public hearings into alleged Communist infiltrations of the press and other news fields.

Fine Is Praised

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) praised Dr. Fine as "a fine citizen" and a "credit to your business."

When the hearings ended, Eastland and Jenner issued a joint statement in which they said the hearings "disclosed many things, including a significant effort on the part of the Communists to penetrate leading American newspapers."

Eastland and Jenner said witnesses who were frank and testified freely "performed a patriotic service for which we are grateful." They hinted at contempt proceedings against some witnesses who refused to answer questions:

Testimony today included:

1. There was a Red cell on the New York Herald Tribune in the 1940s.

2. Two witnesses who today invoked the Fifth Amendment privilege against compulsory self-incrimination were fired by The New York Times after they indicated they would take this course.

Two Lost Jobs

Those who said they had lost their jobs were Nathan Aleskovsky, until recently assistant Book Review editor of the Sunday Times, and Jack Shafer, a copyreader.

All of the witnesses today were from the Times. They were, in order of taking the stand:

1. Robert Shelton, a copyreader, who refused to say whether he is or has been a Communist and challenged the right of the subcommittee to inquire into his associations and beliefs.

2. Alden Whitman, also a copyreader, who readily admitted he was a Communist between 1935 and 1948, but refused to name his Red associates.

3. Aleskovsky, who described himself as "unemployed." He swore he is not now a Communist but refused to say whether he had ever been. He said Lester Markel, Sunday editor of the Times, told him "under the circumstances he didn't think I ought to work there and I could resign or be fired." Whereupon, he said, Markel told him he "had resigned."

4. Matilda Landsman, a linotype operator on the Times, who invoked the Fifth Amendment repeatedly. She refused to say whether she is a Communist, whether she knew people who have been linked with communism, or where she had been employed before becoming a Times linotype operator about a year ago.

Peck Was Member

5. Seymour Peck, employed on the Times Sunday Magazine, who said he was a member of the Communist party from 1935 until 1949. He said he left the party before joining the Times. He said he was a member of Red units on the New York Star and PM, newspapers no longer in existence. Peck declined to name one-time Red associates.

Whitman reluctantly testified that there was a small Red cell on the New York Herald Tribune, where he worked before joining the Times.

Eastland and Jenner said in their statement that the subcommittee in its pursuit of the trail of Communist activity "has been fully cognizant in its study to avoid any step which could fairly be interpreted as an effort to exercise congressional pressure upon the American press."

Soviet President Visits Buchenwald

BERLIN, Jan. 6 (AP)—Soviet President Klementi Y. Voroshilov visited the former Nazi concentration camp at Buchenwald today.

The official Communist East German news agency ADN said he laid a wreath to the camp's 56,000 "cruelly murdered" victims. Voroshilov then inspected the camp's crematorium and a museum.

Witnesses In Red Probe

Monroney Says Ike's Speech Forgot Aviation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) charged today that a Cabinet-level report on federal transportation policy, praised by President Eisenhower yesterday, completely overlooked aviation.

Monroney, chairman of the Senate Aviation subcommittee, said aviation is an extremely important part of the U. S. transportation picture and no general report on transportation would be complete without it.

However, a Monroney query about an "airline protest" against the report brought to light the fact that the Air Transport Assn., composed of scheduled airlines, had not expected or wanted aviation mentioned in the report. It said that subject had been covered throughly in another report.

Monroney, questioning Frederick B. Lee, recently discharged as civil aeronautics administrator, brought out that Lee had not been consulted in the preparation of the report even though, at the time, he headed the farflung Operations of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Monroney asked the committee counsel, Frank Pellegrini, to "begin negotiations at the summit" with the Commerce Department to find out why the transportation report failed to mention aviation.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks was chairman of the advisory committee which made the transportation report to the President last April. Monroney has declared, during the subcommittee's investigation of Lee's discharge, that Weeks and Commerce Undersecretary Louis Rothschild are "groundminded" and tried to exercise presidential authority to fire Lee and strengthen their control of the CAA.

Monroney introduced legislation Thursday to take the CAA out of the Commerce Department and make it an independent agency directly under the President.

In his State of the Union message Thursday, Eisenhower recalled that he had appointed an advisory committee to report on "the deficiencies as well as the effectiveness of existing federal transportation policies."

"I have recommended the fundamental purposes and objectives of the committee's report," Eisenhower said.

"I earnestly recommend that the Congress give prompt attention to the committee's proposals."

Ice Age Tree Stump Found, Delays A-Plant

FT. BELVOIR, Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—The discovery of a tree stump dating back to the ice age halted work briefly on an experimental atomic power plant under construction here, Army engineers said today.

Two men, one a geologist, spotted the stump as foundations for the plant were being dug. They yelled for workmen to stop so the stump could be removed carefully.

Dr. Roland Brown, a paleobotanist for the U. S. Geological Survey, later estimated the stump was 80 million to 130 million years old.

Officer Given 12-Year Term

FT. BELVOIR, Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—A 32-year-old Army officer drew 12 years at hard labor today from a nine-member general court-martial for the wounding of blond 18-year-old Sylvia V. Miller Oct. 15 and related offenses.

1st Lt. George E. Balcom Jr. shot Miss Miller three times as she emerged with her escort from the officers' club here. He was also charged with wounding a bystander, with slugging Miss Miller in his apartment near Alexandria last August, and with giving false information in registering her as his wife at the post hospital.

The court deliberated two hours today after hearing an appeal for leniency from Balcom and before pronouncing sentence.

Britain's Worst Fog In 3 Years Begins To Disappear

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Britain's worst fog in three years lifted from London tonight, but the smoke-laden pall still drifted over 25 English counties.

Government scientists started analyzing samples collected by 450 "smog tasters" who prowled the grimy capital yesterday to find any hidden dangers in the reeking fumes.

Britons have been specially smog-conscious since 1952, when a choking yellow fog claimed the lives of 4,000 sufferers from chest and heart diseases.

Hospitals reported the current fog, which set in three days ago, also brought an increase in breathing troubles, but nothing like the big one.

Traffic disruption, however, looked worse this time than in 1952. The fog spread wider and trains and trucks in eastern and midland districts tonight still were kept down to a crawl.

London's shipping got moving down the Thames again. The big northern ports of Liverpool, Hull and Middlesbrough still were fogbound.

The weatherman pondered the future and wound up noncommittal. In some places he said, the fog probably would disperse. In others, it might not.

The fog was attributed officially to a layer of still, warm air overlaying a ground layer of cold, moist air. London's millions of chimneys funneled soot, sulphur dioxide and other coal fire by-products into the grey mist. Mild northeast winds finally freed the city.

Air Force Gives Added Contract For B52 Bombers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Air Force announced today an additional contract for 248 million dollars worth of B52 heavy bombers.

The planes will be produced at both Seattle, Wash., and Wichita, Kan., plants of the Boeing Airplane Co., the announcement said.

A spokesman said the announcement did not mean an increase in the eventual total number of the long-range, high-speed, all-jet bombers, but merely represented one more order in the over-all B52 procurement program.

The Air Force has never officially disclosed the total number of B52s it plans to acquire.

However, the program calls for an eventual force of 11 wings of B52s. The total number of planes needed to equip that many wings and provide spares might be between 400 and 500 aircraft.

The cost of a B52 is about eight million dollars. The amount of the contract announced today would equip one wing, which requires 30 planes, plus the necessary spare parts.

The Air Force over a year ago began stepping up its B52 production plans, arranging with Boeing to start producing the big bombers at Wichita as well as at Seattle. The first B52 came off the "second source" Seattle plant about a month ago.

West Germany Hails Eisenhower's Speech

BONN, Germany, Jan. 6 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government today hailed the "decisive interest" in Germany voiced by President Eisenhower in his State of the Union message.

The President spoke of the "oppressive division of the German people" and said the United States will "seek to maintain the pressure of world opinion" to unite Germany.

Chinese Shunt Aside Efforts For Release

Declaration Dampens Hopes For Prompt Far East Settlement

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Red China shunted aside today U.S. State Department efforts to speed the release of 13 Americans still in Chinese jails.

A government statement broadcast by Peiping radio said the Mao Tze-tung regime would deal with the Americans when and how it saw fit and "no foreign interference would be allowed."

Scorning Washington's charge that Peiping has violated a Sept. 10 agreement to free all Americans "expeditiously," the statement said:

Will Be Dealt With

"Americans who offended against the law in China must be dealt with in accordance with Chinese legal procedures, and no time limit can be set for their release."

The toughly worded declaration dampened hopes in London that the Chinese Reds would smooth the way to a Far East settlement through prompt release of the remaining Americans in prison. U.S. Secretary of State Dulles has made it plain that release of the Americans must come before the United States will enter into any agreement with Red China on other issues dividing the two countries.

The Communist broadcast renewed Peiping's demand for an early conference between Dulles and Red China Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai "to discuss relaxation and elimination of tension" in the Formosa area. It called for a speedy end to the Western embargo on shipment of strategic goods to Red China.

Warns Of Breakdown

The statement warned the United States to move quickly toward agreement on these issues or face breakdown of the Geneva negotiations between Red China's Wang Ping-nan and U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson. The Geneva talks have been going on sporadically for five months and it was there that the Sept. 10 agreement on release of prisoners was announced.

"The Chinese side will continue to work for an agreement," today's statement said. "However, the Chinese people will not consent to the endless dragging out of the Sino-American talks."

Navy Destroyer Still Aground

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—The Navy will try again during the middle of the night to pull its 3,000-ton escort destroyer Basilone from the mud off the Cape Henry beach near here.

Today was spent in freeing the distressed vessel of 120 tons of ammunition and 120,000 gallons of fuel oil to lighten her and reduce her normal draft of 19 feet about two feet. She blew aground from her anchorage in high winds yesterday.

It was just six years ago this month that the Navy was embarrassed by the grounding of the battleship Missouri, then the only battleship on active duty, just a few miles away. The "Big Mo" was under way when she slammed into the bottom Jan. 17, 1950. She resisted all efforts to free her until Feb. 1.

The Basilone also resisted efforts to tug her loose made at high tides yesterday and early this morning. The next effort was scheduled for 2:30 a.m. Saturday morning. Three salvage ships and two Army barcs, large amphibious vehicles, pulled and pushed on the escort destroyer but in vain.

Demo Committee Challenges Ike's Congress Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Democratic National Committee today challenged President Eisenhower on 32 proposals and statements in his State of the Union message, particularly those dealing with taxes and the farm problem.

It said Eisenhower has approved tax reduction before in the face of an unbalanced budget, and that his "soil bank" farm proposal is a Democratic idea once opposed by the administration.

An analysis of the message by the committee's research division, sent to Democratic legislators, listed the President's remarks and committee comment in parallel columns.

It also questioned the President's statements that national income is "more widely and fairly distributed than ever before" and "our defenses have been reinforced."

Referring to the Eisenhower statement that an income tax cut would not be justified if it unbalanced the budget, the committee said:

"President Eisenhower did not appear to be disturbed about unbalancing the budget in 1954, when, in the face of a prospective deficit of $2,900,000,000 for the fiscal year 1955, he approved tax cuts totalling $7,400,000,000—including the GOP tax bill which gave ¾ of the tax relief to the corporations."

In a special memorandum on the "Soil bank" farm plan, the committee said that twice in 1955 Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse opposed Democratic bills to adopt such a surplus-reducing proposal.

"The administration's delay in adopting these Democratic proposals has been costly to the farmers," the committee said. It added that since July 1955, when the administration first expressed its opposition, farm income has fallen 700 million dollars on an annual basis.

The committee asked if the administration really wants to keep the farm question out of politics, as the President urged, why did Secretary of Agriculture Benson consult only Republicans on the farm program Jan. 4 and 5, and, "Why did the Republican National Committee hire a public relations firm (Braun & Co.) to handle Secretary Benson's public relations?"

As for national income being more fairly distributed than ever before, the committee said:

"National income is up, but big business is getting the lion's share. Farmers, small business men, and wage earners are not getting their fair share."

Commenting on the statement that "our defenses have been reinforced," the committee said since the Republicans took office the Air Force build-up has been set back two years, Army manpower reduced 29 per cent, Army procurement cut heavily, and Navy and Marine Corps personnel slashed.

Peronista Party Assets Seized By Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 6 (AP)—The provisional government today seized the assets of the outlawed Peronista party for transfer to the national treasury.

At the same time the government's 20-member Advisory Council, composed of leaders from various political parties and factions, launched a study aimed at overhauling the voting rolls in preparation for future elections.

It is not known just what the party organized by ex-president Juan D. Peron was worth when the provisional government dissolved it several weeks ago, branding it a "tool for the enthronement" of Peron's dictatorship. But the party had property all over Argentina. In virtually every city and town it had ward headquarters.

The decree confiscating the Peronista assets, including bank accounts and investments, named a three-member National Liquidating Commission to inventory and dispose of the party's possessions within 120 days. Provincial federal administrators were directed to set up local liquidating commissions to aid in selling the property and finding other assets.

Income from the sale of the party's real estate will be invested in construction of public housing. The decree made no specific mention of what will be done with additional assets, such as cash.

Hagerty Denies Gen. Gruenther Soon To Resign

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP) — White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said today he had "no knowledge at all" of a report that Gen. Alfred C. Gruenther is expected to resign in a few months as supreme Allied commander.

The report was published by the independent Socialist daily Het Parool in The Hague, Netherlands. It said Gruenther is slated to succeed Adm. Arthur W. Radford as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Gruenther has been here since Wednesday as a bridge-playing friend of President Eisenhower. The President is recuperating here from his September heart attack.

Hagerty has said Gruenther's visit is purely social.

Gruenther plans to leave Key West when Eisenhower departs, the general then going to an Army base in Puerto Rico. He will remain there until his departure for Paris, where he is scheduled to arrive about the middle of January.

At the Pentagon in Washington, officials expressed surprise at the report published in the Netherlands paper. Spokesmen said there seemed to be no knowledge in the Defense Department of such a plan. It also was pointed out that Adm. Radford only last August began a second two-year term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Woman Flags Down Train With Diaper

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Thelma Haywood, 47, of Flint, used a diaper today to flag down two trains after her car plunged into a ditch and astraddle a double-track railroad crossing.

In the car with Mrs. Haywood were her two young daughters and a fellow laundry worker, Mrs. Annie Frans.

Mrs. Haywood said she saw two trains bearing down on the car from opposite directions. Grabbing an extra diaper, she jumped out of the car and began waving frantically.

Both trains, moving slowly were able to stop in time when crewmen spotted the unusual distress signal.

Politician's Wife Suffocates In Fire, Children Rescued

GADSDEN, Ala., Jan. 6 (AP) — The attractive wife of former Lt. Gov. James B. Allen suffocated while trapped in her bedroom during a fire at their home today.

Allen was painfully burned in rescuing his small son and daughter. He was unable to reach his 39-year-old wife, whose cries first waked him to the family's danger.

The tragedy was the second in 17 days for the Alabama political leader. His eldest daughter, Mary Rebecca, 3, died of pneumonia Dec. 20.

The ranch-type frame home was badly damaged.

Allen was an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1954 and had practiced law in Gadsden since his defeat.

James B. Jr, 10, and Debbie, 13 months, the surviving children, were unharmed.

Mrs. Allen's body was found against the wall in a corner of the bedroom, apparently overcome while trying to find the windows.

Cause of the blaze had not been determined.

Maryland Reports Crop Statistics

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 6 (AP) — Crop reporters unscrambled their statistics today and said 38 million eggs were produced in Maryland last November, an increase of two million over November, 1954.

The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said the month's output brought the 1955 11-month total to 523 million, up two per cent.

Cows as well as hens were more generous last month, the service said. Maryland herds produced an average of 18.4 pounds per cow last Dec. 1, up four-tenths of a pound from a year earlier and 2.3 pounds over the 10 year average for that date.

The report said winter wheat seedings totaled 185,000 acres for harvest, down 8,000 from 1955 and 151,000 from the 10-year average. Conditions as of Dec. 1 indicated 4,440,000 bushels of winter wheat would be produced in 1956.

Rye seeding was estimated at 63,000 acres, up 1,000 over 1955 and 8,000 over the 10-year average.

CONFLAGRATION—Flames erupted in the town barn of Danby near Ithaca, N. Y., yesterday in a $50,000 fire. Norman A. Mabee, 41, a fireman, collapsed of a heart attack while fighting the blaze and died later. This picture was made just as the building seemed to disintegrate with a burst of flame. The barn was built of wood and concrete. Firemen said sparks escaping through a chimney caused the spectacular blaze. (AP Photofax).

Ontario Drivers Must Register

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The State of Maryland slammed the door of reciprocity on the Canadian Province of Ontario today and explained it was merely getting an eye for an eye.

A policy statement from Frank Small, State commissioner of motor vehicles, was circulated among police departments. It said that henceforth truckers from Ontario will have to register when they enter Maryland.

Action was taken, Small explained, only after Ontario officials invoked a similar rule against Maryland commercial vehicles.

Small's statement said:

"For many years past it has been the policy of this department to grant unrestricted reciprocity to motor vehicles, both pleasure and commercial, from all the provinces of Canada when operated in Maryland.

"Recently, however, because of complaints to the effect that commercial motor vehicle owners from Maryland were required to secure Ontario registration before operating in that province, even on widely separated occasions . . . we reluctantly decided not to permit such a one-sided condition to exist to the disadvantage of residents of Maryland."

Heavy Snow Bogs Down Toronto Transit Schedule

TORONTO, Jan. (AP) — Suburban motorists low-geared their way into the city today as the city's transportation facilities staggered from a heavy winter blow.

Police reported traffic tangles in suburbs both in the east and the west following a wet snow that clogged main transportation arteries. In suburban Scarborough police blamed late sanding crews for a mile-long traffic jam on the main traffic gateway to the northeast.

The six-lane Queen Elizabeth Way, entering the city from the west, was blocked periodically as vehicles skidded into traffic snarls.

Toronto Transit Commission officials said all buses and most streetcars were behind schedule.

Green-Tinted Polio Victim's Lung Collapses

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—A polio-stricken farm boy whose body has a strange green tint suffered a collapsed lung today—the third day he has been in a coma.

Doctors announced collapse of his left lung a few hours after reporting he had shown a slight improvement. They said collapse of the lung in effect cut his air intake in half.

The boy, 15-year-old Edward Walsh, is one of the 10 Karon Walsh children who came down with polio last summer. The parents also had slight infections. But four other Walsh children escaped infection.

At first, the most seriously ill of the children was the eldest, 17-year-old David. He was brought from a Rockford hospital, near the family farm in Durand, Ill., to the Research and Educational Hospitals of the University of Illinois in Chicago.

Edward, in a Rockford hospital, began to show a steady decline in his condition, and was brought to Chcago Dec. 28. At the time, doctors reported his body had a mysterious greenish tint.

Examination of Edward's blood serum showed it, too, was greenish in color, instead of the normal red.

Doctors have been unable to determine the reason for the condition.

Edward fell into a deep coma early Wednesday, and the hospital reported his condition was grave.

The boy is breathing with the aid of a tube inserted through an incision in his throat.

The use of a tube enables a patient to breathe without an iron lung.

Air is fed to the lung through the tube and when a "positive pressure is reached, the pumping device stops until the victim expels the air. Then air again is fed into the lung.

Parents of the boy have been at the hospital almost constantly the last few days.

Prosecutors To Press One Whisky Count

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — Prosecutors have been directed to press only one of two disputed counts in an indictment charging 55 whisky distillers and wholesalers with anti-trust law violations.

One charges the producers and wholesalers with conspiring to fix prices, and the other charges them with conspiring to monopolize trade.

Demo Committee Challenges Ike's Congress Message

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Democratic National Committee today challenged President Eisenhower on 32 proposals and statements in his State of the Union message, particularly those dealing with taxes and the farm problem.

It said Eisenhower has approved tax reduction before in the face of an unbalanced budget, and that his "soil bank" farm proposal is a Democratic idea once opposed by the administration.

An analysis of the message by the committee's research division, sent to Democratic legislators, listed the President's remarks and committee comment in parallel columns.

It also questioned the President's statements that national income is "more widely and fairly distributed than ever before" and "our defenses have been reinforced."

Referring to the Eisenhower statement that an income tax cut would not be justified if it unbalanced the budget, the committee said:

"President Eisenhower did not appear to be disturbed about unbalancing the budget in 1954, when, in the face of a prospective deficit of $2,900,000,000 for the fiscal year 1955, he approved tax cuts totalling $7,400,000,000—including the GOP tax bill which gave ¾ of the tax relief to the corporations."

In a special memorandum on the "Soil bank" farm plan, the committee said that twice in 1955 Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse opposed Democratic bills to adopt such a surplus-reducing proposal.

"The administration's delay in adopting these Democratic proposals has been costly to the farmers," the committee said. It added that since July 1955, when the administration first expressed its opposition, farm income has fallen 700 million dollars on an annual basis.

The committee asked if the administration really wants to keep the farm question out of politics, as the President urged, why did Secretary of Agriculture Benson consult only Republicans on the farm program Jan. 4 and 5, and, "Why did the Republican National Committee hire a public relations firm (Braun & Co.) to handle Secretary Benson's public relations?"

As for national income being more fairly distributed than ever before, the committee said:

"National income is up, but big business is getting the lion's share. Farmers, small business men, and wage earners are not getting their fair share."

Commenting on the statement that "our defenses have been reinforced," the committee said since the Republicans took office the Air Force build-up has been set back two years, Army manpower reduced 29 per cent, Army procurement cut heavily, and Navy and Marine Corps personnel slashed.

Peronista Party Assets Seized By Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 6 (AP)—The provisional government today seized the assets of the outlawed Peronista party for transfer to the national treasury.

At the same time the government's 20-member Advisory Council, composed of leaders from various political parties and factions, launched a study aimed at overhauling the voting rolls in preparation for future elections.

It is not known just what the party organized by ex-president Juan D. Peron was worth when the provisional government dissolved it several weeks ago, branding it a "tool for the enthronement" of Peron's dictatorship. But the party had property all over Argentina. In virtually every city and town it had ward headquarters.

The decree confiscating the Peronista assets, including bank accounts and investments, named a three-member National Liquidating Commission to inventory and dispose of the party's possessions within 120 days. Provincial federal administrators were directed to set up local liquidating commissions to aid in selling the property and finding other assets.

Income from the sale of the party's real estate will be invested in construction of public housing. The decree made no specific mention of what will be done with additional assets, such as cash.

Hagerty Denies Gen. Gruenther Soon To Resign

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP) — White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said today he had "no knowledge at all" of a report that Gen. Alfred C. Gruenther is expected to resign in a few months as supreme Allied commander.

The report was published by the independent Socialist daily Het Parool in The Hague, Netherlands. It said Gruenther is slated to succeed Adm. Arthur W. Radford as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Gruenther has been here since Wednesday as a bridge-playing friend of President Eisenhower. The President is recuperating here from his September heart attack.

Hagerty has said Gruenther's visit is purely social.

Gruenther plans to leave Key West when Eisenhower departs, the general then going to an Army base in Puerto Rico. He will remain there until his departure for Paris, where he is scheduled to arrive about the middle of January.

At the Pentagon in Washington, officials expressed surprise at the report published in the Netherlands paper. Spokesmen said there seemed to be no knowledge in the Defense Department of such a plan. It also was pointed out that Adm. Radford only last August began a second two-year term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Thelma Haywood, 47, of Flint, used a diaper today to flag down two trains after her car plunged into a ditch and astraddle a double-track railroad crossing.

In the car with Mrs. Haywood were her two young daughters and a fellow laundry worker, Mrs. Annie Frans.

Mrs. Haywood said she saw two trains bearing down on the car from opposite directions. Grabbing an extra diaper, she jumped out of the car and began waving frantically.

Both trains, moving slowly were able to stop in time when crewmen spotted the unusual distress signal.

Politician's Wife Suffocates In Fire, Children Rescued

GADSDEN, Ala., Jan. 6 (AP) — The attractive wife of former Lt. Gov. James B. Allen suffocated while trapped in her bedroom during a fire at their home today.

Allen was painfully burned in rescuing his small son and daughter. He was unable to reach his 39-year-old wife, whose cries first waked him to the family's danger.

The tragedy was the second in 17 days for the Alabama political leader. His eldest daughter, Mary Rebecca, 3, died of pneumonia Dec. 20.

The ranch-type frame home was badly damaged.

Allen was an unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1954 and had practiced law in Gadsden since his defeat.

James B. Jr. 10, and Debbie, 13 months, the surviving children, were unharmed.

Mrs. Allen's body was found against the wall in a corner of the bedroom, apparently overcome while trying to find the windows.

Cause of the blaze had not been determined.

Maryland Reports Crop Statistics

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 6 (AP) — Crop reporters unscrambled their statistics today and said 38 million eggs were produced in Maryland last November, an increase of two million over November, 1954.

The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said the month's output brought the 1955 11-month total to 523 million, up two per cent.

Cows as well as hens were more generous last month, the service said. Maryland herds produced an average of 18.4 pounds per cow last Dec. 1, up four-tenths of a pound from a year earlier and 2.3 pounds over the 10 year average for that date.

The report said winter wheat seedings totaled 185,000 acres for harvest, down 8,000 from 1955 and 151,000 from the 10-year average. Conditions as of Dec. 1 indicated 4,440,000 bushels of winter wheat would be produced in 1956.

Rye seeding was estimated at 63,000 acres, up 1,000 over 1955 and 8,000 over the 10-year average.

Heads Hospital

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — Herman E. Schieke, retired Navy captain who operates and lives on a farm at Edgewater, Md., today was appointed administrative engineer of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

CONFLAGRATION—Flames erupted in the town barn of Danby near Ithaca, N. Y., yesterday in a $50,000 fire. Norman A. Mabee, 41, a fireman, collapsed of a heart attack while fighting the blaze and died later. This picture was made just as the building seemed to disintegrate with a burst of flame. The barn was built of wood and concrete. Firemen said sparks escaping through a chimney caused the spectacular blaze. (AP Photofax).

Ontario Drivers Must Register

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The State of Maryland slammed the door of reciprocity on the Canadian Province of Ontario today and explained it was merely getting an eye for an eye.

A policy statement from Frank Small, State commissioner of motor vehicles, was circulated among police departments. It said that henceforth truckers from Ontario will have to register when they enter Maryland.

Action was taken, Small explained, only after Ontario officials invoked a similar rule against Maryland commercial vehicles.

Small's statement said:

"For many years past it has been the policy of this department to grant unrestricted reciprocity to motor vehicles, both pleasure and commercial, from all the provinces of Canada when operated in Maryland.

"Recently, however, because of complaints to the effect that commercial motor vehicle owners from Maryland were required to secure Ontario registration before operating in that province, even on widely separated occasions . . . we reluctantly decided not to permit such a one-sided condition to exist to the disadvantage of residents of Maryland."

Heavy Snow Bogs Down Toronto Transit Schedule

TORONTO, Jan. (AP) — Suburban motorists low-geared their way into the city today as the city's transportation facilities staggered from a heavy winter blow.

Police reported traffic tangles in suburbs both in the east and the west following a wet snow that clogged main transportation arteries. In suburban Scarborough police blamed late sanding crews for a mile-long traffic jam on the main traffic gateway to the northeast.

The six-lane Queen Elizabeth Way, entering the city from the west, was blocked periodically as vehicles skidded into traffic snarls.

Toronto Transit Commission officials said all buses and most streetcars were behind schedule.

Taylor Cleared In Loyalty Case

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—William Henry Taylor, U.S. official of the International Monetary Fund, whose loyalty had come into question, said today he has notification that he has been "cleared."

The clearance was reported by Taylor in reply to a question.

He was given a second hearing after the organization's loyalty board decided last June that "there is a reasonable doubt" of loyalty.

The board reopened the case Aug. 12 on the plea of Byron N. Scott, Taylor's attorney, that he had new evidence the board should consider.

Green-Tinted Polio Victim's Lung Collapses

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—A polio-stricken farm boy whose body has a strange green tint suffered a collapsed lung today—the third day he has been in a coma.

Doctors announced collapse of his left lung a few hours after reporting he had shown a slight improvement. They said collapse of the lung in effect cut his air intake in half.

The boy, 15-year-old Edward Walsh, is one of the 10 Karon Walsh children who came down with polio last summer. The parents also had slight infections. But four other Walsh children escaped infection.

At first, the most seriously ill of the children was the eldest, 17-year-old David. He was brought from a Rockford hospital, near the family farm in Durand, Ill., to the Research and Educational Hospitals of the University of Illinois in Chicago.

Edward, in a Rockford hospital, began to show a steady decline in his condition, and was brought to Chcago Dec. 28. At the time, doctors reported his body had a mysterious greenish tint.

Examination of Edward's blood serum showed it, too, was greenish in color, instead of the normal red.

Doctors have been unable to determine the reason for the condition.

Edward fell into a deep coma early Wednesday, and the hospital reported his condition was grave.

The boy is breathing with the aid of a tube inserted through an incision in his throat.

The use of a tube enables a patient to breathe without an iron lung.

Air is fed to the lung through the tube and when a "positive pressure is reached, the pumping device stops until the victim expels the air. Then air again is fed into the lung.

Parents of the boy have been at the hospital almost constantly the last few days.

Prosecutors To Press One Whisky Count

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — Prosecutors have been directed to press only one of two disputed counts in an indictment charging 55 whisky distillers and wholesalers with anti-trust law violations.

Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen refused to quash the indictment but granted the defendants' motion to choose between the two counts.

One charges the producers and wholesalers with conspiring to fix prices, and the other charges them with conspiring to monopolize trade.

PATTERNS IN THE SNOW

They make pretty patterns on the snow, these fences. But they were not built "for looks." They were erected for protection. They stand as bulwarks against the physical elements.

There are other kinds of bulwarks most of us need in our daily lives—spiritual bulwarks. For even the strongest of us cannot stand alone. Sometimes we think we can . . . but the moment comes when we realize how much we need help.

It is then that we turn toward the Church. And, no matter how remiss we may have been, the Church stands there with doors open wide, ready to receive us.

But should we wait until we really need a spiritual bulwark? How much better to establish ourselves in the Church now and be assured of its strength and comfort through all our days.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

PATTERNS IN THE SNOW

They make pretty patterns on the snow, these fences. But they were not built "for looks." They were erected for protection. They stand as bulwarks against the physical elements.

There are other kinds of bulwarks most of us need in our daily lives—spiritual bulwarks. For even the strongest of us cannot stand alone. Sometimes we think we can . . . but the moment comes when we realize how much we need help.

It is then that we turn toward the Church. And, no matter how remiss we may have been, the Church stands there with doors open wide, ready to receive us.

But should we wait until we really need a spiritual bulwark? How much better to establish ourselves in the Church now and be assured of its strength and comfort through all our days.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Miss Joan Louise Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Smith, 19 Valley Street, will become the bride of Joseph Martin Hager, Blumfield, New Jersey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl N. Hager, 408 Lehigh Street, this afternoon.

The double ring ceremony is to be solemnized at 1 o'clock in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, with Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny officiating. Baskets of assorted white flowers are being used in the decorations.

Miss Dorothy Stull, niece of the bride, is her maid of honor and only attendant; while George W. Long Jr., is Mr. Hager's best man; and William G. Smith, brother of the bride; Norman F. Geatz Jr., Robert E. Hager, cousin of the bridegroom; and Ralph L. Hager, uncle of the bridegroom, are the ushers. Miss Carroll Ann Boyle, cousin of the bride, will be the vocalist, singing an 'Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus," and while the bride places her bouquet on Our Lady's altar, "Mother at Thy Feet I'm Kneeling." She will be accompanied by Sister Josephine at the organ.

To be given in marriage by her father, the bride will wear a gown of white Skinners satin with bodice of Chantilly lace over satin. It is fashioned with an Empire waist, long sleeves tapering to a point and full floor-length skirt. Her waist-length veil of bridal illusion is held by a crown of pearls. Her only ornament is a single strand of pearls. She will place a bouquet of gardenias and carnations on the altar as she dedicates her life to Our Lady, and will carry a white prayer book with white orchid marker with streamers of shattered carnations.

Her attendant will be attired in a copen blue moire gown, fashioned on lines similar to the bride's. With it she has matching mitts and headpiece and will carry a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Smith has selected an aqua blue dress for her daughter's wedding and with it will wear a pink hat, black accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Catholic Girls Central High School and is employed as an operator by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Allegany High School and served 24 months in the Army, of which 18 were spent in Korea and Japan. He is employed by the McCrory Store in Clifton, N.J.

Following the ceremony Mr. Hager and his bride will go to Sacred Heart Hospital to visit his mother, who has been a patient there for the past five weeks. She too has an orchid corsage.

The wedding reception will be held at the Moose Home, where the bridal motif will be carried out in flowers and streamers and repeated in the four-tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Carl C. Lehr, Putnam, Conn., Mrs. Robert Herboldsheimer, Mrs. Mary Stull, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Nellie Nycum will assist in serving.

For their wedding trip, motoring through the south, the bride will be attired in a charcoal gray sheath dress, with white satin hat, and black accessories. Her orchid corsage will complete her costume.

Dressing Problem Confronts Mother

Not only the bride is very concerned over what to wear to her wedding. Many mothers write to me that they don't know what to wear, and it is terribly important to them.

We always tell them there are really only two limitations a mother needs to consider in choosing her costume for the wedding. Her dress or costume should be appropriate and flattering. The bride, by her choice of the wedding, the hour and the type, sets the limits of appropriateness.

At a formal morning wedding, a mother would wear a street-length dress or costume in a fairly dressy fabric. For a formal afternoon or evening wedding, she would usually choose a cocktail-type or floor-length dress with covered shoulders and, more-often-than-not, sleeves.

For an informal ceremony, mothers wear street-length dresses, suit dresses, or a dress and jacket costume.

For any church ceremony, the mother will wear a small, but feminine hat, gloves, and her corsage. Gloves are not worn for a home wedding.

"Dear Mr. Powers: I just received an invitation to attend a formal wedding. Please tell me what to say to those in the receiving line." — J. R., Haworth, N. Y.

The line always moves fairly fast, with time for smiles and a few cheerful remarks. Just remember that you don't "congratulate" the bride . . . that could indicate that you think she was lucky to find a husband. You "congratulate" the bridegroom and "felicitate" the bride.

Card Party, Campaigns Are Discussed By GOP Women

Announcements of activities were made and two representatives of the assessment office of Allegany County spoke of their duties at the meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Cumberland Thursday. Mrs. James Orr presided at the meeting at Ali Ghan City Club.

Plans for the annual card party February 7 were outlined by Mrs. L. E. Daugherty, chairman. It will be held in Emmanuel Episcopal Parish house, beginning at 8 o'clock. The goal is 100 tables, and this will be the club's big fund-raising project for the year. Bridge, 500, canasta and dominoes are to be played. Other games can be played, providing the players make up their own table and bring cards. There will be prizes for every table, besides four extra prizes. Mrs. James W. Bishop is in charge of the candy table; and Mrs. E. F. Phillips, tickets. The card party will take the place of the regular meeting, which would have been February 2.

As Educational chairman, Mrs. Lucile Roeder spoke of the club's "personal touch" vote-getting duties and of the accomplishments of the Eisenhower regime to be used as talking points for undecided voters.

Mrs. Orr spoke of the "Thank you Mr. President" campaign, which will be organized this month and launched in February. She said every Republican woman who is registered will be solicited door-to-door.

Mrs. Wilbur Sills, with Mrs. Brooks Starcher as her co-chairman, will have charge of the program and refreshments at the March meeting. April 5, the meeting will be designated as "County institutions" night. Mrs. Raymond Messmer, matron of Sylvan Retreat, and Mrs. Earl Grim, matron of the County Home, will have charge of the program and refreshments. Moving pictures of the three county institutions will be shown and the superintendents will tell of their duties. Instead of May 3, the last meeting for the summer will be held May 10. This will be a dinner meeting at 6:30 at the Ali Ghan Country Club. Mrs. Earl Conn will be chairman with Mrs. Joseph Boden, co-chairman.

The meeting was opened with the Lord's Prayer, pledge to the flag, and singing of "America the Beautiful." Routine reports were given by Mrs Conn and Miss Wella Cook. Mrs. Clarence Frost was welcomed as a new member.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Helen Treat, chairman for the evening. William Plummer explained how real estate assessments are made, saying, "We have nothing to do with your taxes. We should be reclassified and called evaluators." He also said that there are 30,000 pieces of real estate in this county and explained the procedure of processing a deed. David Kirk, speaking of personal property assessments, explained that "everything in a store that can be touched is personal property . . Assessments on fixtures depreciate 10 per cent each year and stop when 25 per cent of value is reached, where it stays as long as the fixtures are in use." He told how inventories are averaged to reach an assessment figure of 60 per cent.

J. Wallace Close, tax collector, said, "Only one tax is criticized more than real estate tax . . . income tax." He told how the commissioners anticipate expenditures for a year in making the budget and of the $100,000 contingency fund which depletes (as for the water lines needed for the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass factory) and must be replaced. The increased costs of institutional up-keep, materials for roads, and county employe salary increases make the budget higher. "Real estate taxes are down seven cents from 1953," he said.

A musical program followed with the Beall sisters, Johanna and Virginia Lee, singing with Mrs. Raymond Taylor at the piano. They sang, "Moonlight and Roses," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "There's a Long, Long Trail a-Winding," and "Memories." Johanna sang, "Because," as a solo; and Virginia Lee, "A Perfect Day." During the social hour Mrs. Treat, her committee, Mr. Plummer and the Beall sisters sang an impromptu concert.

Mrs. Orr will attend the meeting of the board of directors of the Federation of Republican Women of Maryland January 12 at the Stafford Hotel in Baltimore. The meeting will be in the form of a "College for Club Presidents," when officers, district chairmen and committee chairmen will speak of their duties and responsibilities.

Grace Kelly's Romance Stirs Movie Capital

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6 (AP) — The movie town, which loves the Cinderella story, couldn't be more pleased that Grace Kelly is engaged to the Prince of Monaco.

Or surprised. The news was the biggest bombshell to hit the town since Marilyn left Joe.

Officials at Grace's studio were left with hanging jaws. "We had no inkling of the engagement," they said.

Even good friends like designer Edith Head were left in the dark. "What a poker player that girl would make!" said Miss Head. She added:

"But then I am never surprised by what Grace does. She's a girl who keeps her own counsel. I can tell you this: She's not going to make any mistakes. When she decides to get married, you know she's going to make a happy choice."

The actress' costar, Cary Grant, is one of the few intimates in whom Miss Kelly confided. "I knew a couple of days ago," he confessed, "but I was sworn to secrecy."

He indicated the romance did not begin while the pair was making a film on the Riviera. Grace apparently met the prince when she was attending the Cannes Film Festival a year ago.

Although Miss Kelly has been clam-like in personal matters, she has remarked in the past that she had only been in love once. That was with a Philadelphia boy who died.

She has indicated that there was nothing really serious about her much-publicized friendships with designer Oleg Cassini, once wed to Gene Tierney; and Jean Pierre Aumont, widower of Maria Montez. However, both these men set the pattern for the man of her dreams—a polished, courtly young man of international society.

Although she's the daughter of a Philadelphia millionaire, Grace can qualify for the Cinderella role without too much stretch of the imagination. After all, she is the granddaughter of an Irish immigrant. And though her uncles Walter and George were big names in show business, she made her way to stardom without their help.

There's no doubting her qualifications to be a princess. Hollywood has been awed by her amazing beauty and her regal manner. Even her accent is more out of Buckingham Palace than Philadelphia.

The inevitable press agent offers this bit of added information: In her just-completed film, she marries a prince, played by Alec Guinness.

State Of Union Message Began With Washington

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — George Washington started it all, 65 years ago this week, with the first presidential message on the State of the Union.

And some of the problems that fretted Washington in 1790 are still around, to be brought up by President Eisenhower in his report to Congress.

Like Eisenhower, Washington wondered if our common defense was good enough, if we should do something about problems involving immigration, and, even, if there should be federal aid to education. Only Washington gave it a fancier name. The "promotion of science and literature," he called it.

"Whether this desirable object," Washington told the first Congress, "will be best promoted by affording aids to seminaries of learning already established, by the institution of a national university, or by other expedients, will be well worthy of a place in the deliberations of the Legislature."

Now we're up to the tailend of the 84th Congress and Eisenhower still thinks federal aid to education is well worthy of a place in its deliberations.

This annual report to Congress, by the way, is ordered by the Constitution. In listing the President's duties, the Constitution says:

"He shall from time to time give the Congress information of the State of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient."

In 1790, Congress was meeting in New York. Washington apparently enjoyed dropping by to give the boys his ideas. Here's the way he described the trip in his diary:

"At 11 o'clock, I set out for the City Hall in my coach, preceded by Col. Humphreys and Maj. Jackson in uniform (on my two white horses) and followed by Messrs. Lear and Nelson, in my chariot, and Mrs. Lewis on horseback, following them."

Behind them, Washington noted, came the chief justice and the secretaries of war and the treasury. When they arrived, he said, there was considerable rising and bowing and ceremony before he began his speech.

Washington continued his policy of delivering important speeches in person, and so did John Adams. But Thomas Jefferson, a beautiful writer but a poor speaker, merely sent his message over, to be read by a clerk, just as Eisenhower, recuperating in Key West, Fla., sent his to be read Thursday.

That practice was followed until 1913 when Woodrow Wilson went back to the precedent set by Washington. Since then, most presidents seem to prefer reporting in person (one exception: Herbert Hoover), although there's no set pattern on how Congress is to get the president's views.

Until now, the last previous occasion when a president failed to show up in person for a State of the Union message was on Jan. 7, 1953. Harry Truman had only two weeks more to serve, and he told Congress in his written message he didn't think it was up to him to tell them what to do any more.

So he reviewed the eight years, thanked everybody, and wished the new man luck.

Schools Will Get New Equipment

New equipment will be installed next week in Allegany High School and Flintstone School, Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, announced yesterday.

Allegany will get a complete home economics cooking laboratory while Flintstone will get science equipment.

The latter includes two laboratory tables and a demonstration table, all three furnished with gas, electricity and water.

The successful bidder was the District Equipment Company of Hyattsville.

Plate, Window Backlog Total Reduced By PPG

Although plate and window glass are still in short supply, capacity production throughout 1955 has enabled Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company to reduce its backlog of orders toward the close of the year.

According to David G. Hill, president of the company, new production records were established by the company's seven plate and window glass producing plants during the past twelve months. All plants have been operating on an around-the-clock schedule.

He estimated that production was about two months behind demand for the flat glass products at the end of the year. Further improvement in balance between supply and demand is expected in the early months of 1956, according to the Pittsburgh Plate official.

Additional manufacturing and storage facilities designed to substantially increase the company's plate and window glass capacity will be completed and in production by the end of the current year.

An ultra-modern plate glass plant is under construction here and a new window glass factory will be built at Decatur, Illinois, this year Scheduled for partial production by mid-year, the $34,000,000 plant at Cumberland will be in full production by the end of 1956. It will increase the company's plate glass manufacturing capacity by about 20 per cent.

Hill stated that Pittsburgh Plate's glass division has spent $50,000,000 during the past five years for new plants and equipment. At present, another $50,000,000 is authorized for further expansion in the glass division alone.

Gas Firm Lists Progress

The home life of over 30,000 Cumberland residents is more comfortable today because a 10-year service improvement program by Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company has put the firm in position to meet year 'round gas demands, District Manager C. C. Robbins said here yesterday.

This program has involved developing larger supplies of gas—particularly from the southwestern United States. New supply lines into Cumberland have been laid and several miles of local delivery lines have been replaced and enlarged.

Robbins said a large part of the maze of pipelines in Cumberland has been entirely renewed during the service improvement program. In addition, an all-new supply line from Keyser to Cumberland makes larger volumes of gas available here during zero weather.

The official pointed out that almost 80 per cent of Cumberland's belt system—the encircling band of lines that move gas to all parts of the city—has been replaced and enlarged. In addition, numerous low pressure lines which take gas from the belt system and route it into the various neighborhoods also have been renewed.

Other sections of the belt system and several low pressure feeders are scheduled to be replaced this summer, he added. Largest replacement will be made east from a regulator on McMullen Highway across the Potomac River to a connection near Federal Street. From that part of the line a feeder will be built to the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant, Robbins said.

To meet the demand for gas throughout its system, C & A built an eight-inch line north from the Atlantic Seaboard Corporation pipeline into Elkins at a cost of $195,000 in 1950.

Following World War II, large quantities of gas were discovered in the Terra Alta field in Preston County, W. Va. The gas company purchased part of that field in 1951 and invested another $1,300,000 to build about 40 miles of pipeline from the Oakland production area through the Terra Alta field northwest to the transmission lines of Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, a sister Columbia Gas System company, Robbins said.

Some of the Oakland and Terra Alta production is delivered to Manufacturers in warm weather for storage and returned to C & A, at Ellerslie in winter months.

Although thus bolstered by the southwest gas received at Elkins and the new West Virginia and Maryland gas, the company's main east-west supply line was still unable to move sufficient volumes into Cumberland to meet increasing requirements, the official said.

To correct that bottleneck, C & A laid a new 12-inch line from Keyser to Cumberland in 1952. Robbins said that $670,000 line prevented shortages in several parts of Cumberland by making more gas available in the belt system around the city.

In 1953, two new sources of gas were discovered — in Randolph County, W. Va., and near Accident in Garrett County. Production from both fields have added substantially to C & A's overall gas supply, but has not provided sufficient gas to meet the skyrocketing demands of the company's West Virginia and Maryland customers.

While improvements to the central pipeline system were being made, sections of the delivery system here were being renewed and replaced to improve cold weather service, he added.

About 1¾ miles of Cumberland belt system lines and low-pressure feeders were replaced in 1955 at a cost of $83,000. The overall improvement program consisted of three replacements in the belt system, and two jobs calling for new and larger low-pressure feeders off the belt line, the official explained.

Ruling Need Cited In Co. SS Program

Governor McKeldin informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by letter that he has turned over the request of the board for a referendum among county employes on whether they want Social Security coverage to the attorney general for a ruling.

The governor said Chapter 636 of the Acts of 1955 of the Legislature prohibits a referendum on the Social Security proposal among state employes until June, 1956.

As a result of this section of the statute, the Governor stated he has turned over the board's referendum petition to C. Ferdinand Sybert, attorney general, for study and a ruling on whether the law pertaining to state employes applies to Allegany County employes.

If the attorney general rules the law does not prohibit a referendum among Allegany County employes prior to June, 1956 then the Governor can set up the referendum machinery.

There are about 300 county employes eligible for the coverage. They are presently under the State Retirement System, and the Social Security coverage would be added protection for themselves and families.

Bids On School Sought

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday authorized bids be asked for the sale of the abandoned school property in Lonaconing formerly known as the Jackson Street School.

Bids will be opened February 3 at 10:30 a. m. The property is located on .575 acres of ground at the intersection of Jackson and Hanekamp streets, Lonaconing.

Excluded from the sale will be a portion of the tract which was leased to Alvin C Neat Post 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, on July 10, 1954. The land is used as a recreation area.

Colin Bowers, president of the Mt. Savage Light Association, today asked the commissioners to install a water line into the jail building in that community.

The structure is owned and maintained by the county. The board approved the request and instructed J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, to handle the matter.

Howard W. Painter requested the board to make repairs to a street in Bowling Green near Cresap Drive. He said the shoulders are too high and the road dusty. The request was turned over to Chapman.

"He shall from time to time give the Congress information of the State of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient."

In 1790, Congress was meeting in New York. Washington apparently enjoyed dropping by to give the boys his ideas. Here's the way he described the trip in his diary:

"At 11 o'clock, I set out for the City Hall in my coach, preceded by Col. Humphreys and Maj. Jackson in uniform (on my two white horses) and followed by Messrs. Lear and Nelson, in my chariot, and Mrs. Lewis on horseback, following them."

Behind them, Washington noted, came the chief justice and the secretaries of war and the treasury. When they arrived, he said, there was considerable rising and bowing and ceremony before he began his speech.

Washington continued his policy of delivering important speeches in person, and so did John Adams. But Thomas Jefferson, a beautiful writer but a poor speaker, merely sent his message over, to be read by a clerk, just as Eisenhower, recuperating in Key West, Fla., sent his to be read Thursday.

That practice was followed until 1913 when Woodrow Wilson went back to the precedent set by Washington. Since then, most presidents seem to prefer reporting in person (one exception: Herbert Hoover), although there's no set pattern on how Congress is to get the president's views.

Until now, the last previous occasion when a president failed to show up in person for a State of the Union message was on Jan. 7, 1953. Harry Truman had only two weeks more to serve, and he told Congress in his written message he didn't think it was up to him to tell them what to do any more.

So he reviewed the eight years, thanked everybody, and wished the new man luck.

Schools Will Get New Equipment

New equipment will be installed next week in Allegany High School and Flintstone School, Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, announced yesterday.

Allegany will get a complete home economics cooking laboratory while Flintstone will get science equipment.

The latter includes two laboratory tables and a demonstration table, all three furnished with gas, electricity and water.

The successful bidder was the District Equipment Company of Hyattsville.

Plate, Window Backlog Total Reduced By PPG

Although plate and window glass are still in short supply, capacity production throughout 1955 has enabled Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company to reduce its backlog of orders toward the close of the year.

According to David G. Hill, president of the company, new production records were established by the company's seven plate and window glass producing plants during the past twelve months. All plants have been operating on an around-the-clock schedule.

He estimated that production was about two months behind demand for the flat glass products at the end of the year. Further improvement in balance between supply and demand is expected in the early months of 1956, according to the Pittsburgh Plate official.

Additional manufacturing and storage facilities designed to substantially increase the company's plate and window glass capacity will be completed and in production by the end of the current year.

An ultra-modern plate glass plant is under construction here and a new window glass factory will be built at Decatur, Illinois, this year Scheduled for partial production by mid-year, the $34,000,000 plant at Cumberland will be in full production by the end of 1956. It will increase the company's plate glass manufacturing capacity by about 20 per cent.

Hill stated that Pittsburgh Plate's glass division has spent $50,000,000 during the past five years for new plants and equipment. At present, another $50,000,000 is authorized for further expansion in the glass division alone.

Gas Firm Lists Progress

The home life of over 30,000 Cumberland residents is more comfortable today because a 10-year service improvement program by Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company has put the firm in position to meet year 'round gas demands, District Manager C. C. Robbins said here yesterday.

This program has involved developing larger supplies of gas—particularly from the southwestern United States. New supply lines into Cumberland have been laid and several miles of local delivery lines have been replaced and enlarged.

Robbins said a large part of the maze of pipelines in Cumberland has been entirely renewed during the service improvement program. In addition, an all-new supply line from Keyser to Cumberland makes larger volumes of gas available here during zero weather.

The official pointed out that almost 80 per cent of Cumberland's belt system—the encircling band of lines that move gas to all parts of the city—has been replaced and enlarged. In addition, numerous low pressure lines which take gas from the belt system and route it into the various neighborhoods also have been renewed.

Other sections of the belt system and several low pressure feeders are scheduled to be replaced this summer, he added. Largest replacement will be made east from a regulator on McMullen Highway across the Potomac River to a connection near Federal Street. From that part of the line a feeder will be built to the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass plant, Robbins said.

To meet the demand for gas throughout its system, C & A built an eight-inch line north from the Atlantic Seaboard Corporation pipeline into Elkins at a cost of $195,000 in 1950.

Following World War II, large quantities of gas were discovered in the Terra Alta field in Preston County, W. Va. The gas company purchased part of that field in 1951 and invested another $1,300,000 to build about 40 miles of pipeline from the Oakland production area through the Terra Alta field northwest to the transmission lines of Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, a sister Columbia Gas System company, Robbins said.

Some of the Oakland and Terra Alta production is delivered to Manufacturers in warm weather for storage and returned to C & A, at Ellerslie in winter months.

Although thus bolstered by the southwest gas received at Elkins and the new West Virginia and Maryland gas, the company's main east-west supply line was still unable to move sufficient volumes into Cumberland to meet increasing requirements, the official said.

To correct that bottleneck, C & A laid a new 12-inch line from Keyser to Cumberland in 1952. Robbins said that $670,000 line prevented shortages in several parts of Cumberland by making more gas available in the belt system around the city.

In 1953, two new sources of gas were discovered — in Randolph County, W. Va., and near Accident in Garrett County. Production from both fields have added substantially to C & A's overall gas supply, but has not provided sufficient gas to meet the skyrocketing demands of the company's West Virginia and Maryland customers.

While improvements to the central pipeline system were being made, sections of the delivery system here were being renewed and replaced to improve cold weather service, he added.

About 1¾ miles of Cumberland belt system lines and low-pressure feeders were replaced in 1955 at a cost of $83,000. The overall improvement program consisted of three replacements in the belt system, and two jobs calling for new and larger low-pressure feeders off the belt line, the official explained.

Ruling Need Cited In Co. SS Program

Governor McKeldin informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by letter that he has turned over the request of the board for a referendum among county employes on whether they want Social Security coverage to the attorney general for a ruling.

The governor said Chapter 636 of the Acts of 1955 of the Legislature prohibits a referendum on the Social Security proposal among state employes until June, 1956.

As a result of this section of the statute, the Governor stated he has turned over the board's referendum petition to C. Ferdinand Sybert, attorney general, for study and a ruling on whether the law pertaining to state employes applies to Allegany County employes.

If the attorney general rules the law does not prohibit a referendum among Allegany County employes prior to June, 1956 then the Governor can set up the referendum machinery.

There are about 300 county employes eligible for the coverage. They are presently under the State Retirement System, and the Social Security coverage would be added protection for themselves and families.

Bids On School Sought

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday authorized bids be asked for the sale of the abandoned school property in Lonaconing formerly known as the Jackson Street School.

Bids will be opened February 3 at 10:30 a. m. The property is located on .575 acres of ground at the intersection of Jackson and Hanekamp streets, Lonaconing.

Excluded from the sale will be a portion of the tract which was leased to Alvin C Neat Post 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, on July 10, 1954. The land is used as a recreation area.

Colin Bowers, president of the Mt. Savage Light Association, today asked the commissioners to install a water line into the jail building in that community.

The structure is owned and maintained by the county. The board approved the request and instructed J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, to handle the matter.

Howard W. Painter requested the board to make repairs to a street in Bowling Green near Cresap Drive. He said the shoulders are too high and the road dusty. The request was turned over to Chapman.

Handbook On Reds A Public Service

If the best way to fight an enemy effectively is to know him thoroughly, the Senate subcommittee on internal security has performed a distinct public service by publishing its new handbook on the Communist party and its activities in the United States.

The subcommittee has adopted the sound theory that only a public fully informed on what the Reds are up to can cope with them. Such agencies as the police and the FBI are essential but they cannot be completely effective unless the public is able to spot the disguises in which communism operates.

This handbook, entitled "The Communist Party in the United States of America—What It Is, How It Works," traces the chain of command from the Politbureau in Moscow down to the local community club or front organization. It explains how and why the Communists operate through fronts, since Communists speaking openly as party members are able to make little headway in this country. It offers advice on how to recognize fronts.

And in an analysis of "What Makes a Communist Tick," it finds that alleged inequalities are less the cause of communism than the type of individual attracted to this cause. These are adventurous spirits who thrive on the conspiratorial atmosphere, "mission-minded" intellectuals, maladjusted individuals, and those with an axe to grind.

Communism in America is not large. The total fixed membership of the party, according to the FBI, is only 22,663. The subcommittee figures at least 10 times that number are sympathizers. The danger lies in the fact that people may be unable to recognize those who work for communism under their various disguises.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Ike's Heart

I recently read two editorials asking President Eisenhower not to run again. Both appeared in a newspaper dedicated to the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson. It seemed to me that both articles missed the point: it is the right of any American to run for the presidency; the choice of election rests with the people. They can choose whomever they desire among the candidates offered by the politicians. If the voters, come next November, decide that they prefer a man of doubtful availability to a man with a doubtful heart, that will be their choice. None of this argument forbids Eisenhower to be a candidate, to be elected or defeated as the fortunes of politics dictate on election day.

The Stevenson people object to Eisenhower running because they believe that whereas Eisenhower can be elected, no other Republican can be. Many Republicans believe that any Republican can be elected except Dewey. Many Democrats believe that any Democrat, except Stevenson, can this year defeat any Republican including Eisenhower. All this is speculative and in January of an election year is nonsense. No one knows in January what the voters will do in November.

Ike's heart is a bit of a problem, principally because the man is so favored as a person. No one wishes him bad luck, not even his opponents in the Republican or Democratic party. Quite apart from the presidency, he is a good guy. He has always known how to make himself liked and if he has opponents and adversaries today, it is because he entered upon a role in life where opponents and adversaries are essential to good government.

The papa-complex which the regency has foisted upon the Republican party, and which it is now attempting to foist upon the American voters who like Ike as a man but are dubious about his being a god-on-earth, will do him more harm than good. It is this rather than Eisenhower's heart that is likely to make trouble for him politically. The last man-god we had was Franklin D. Roosevelt and the record as it unfolds about his third and fourth terms is very sad. Had he been satisfied with just being a two-term President, he might have gone down in history as a constructive reformer. It is now clear, from the Yalta record, including Ambassador Harriman's reports to Roosevelt and later Truman, that Roosevelt knew before he died that Stalin was double-crossing him.

Americans generally take men in their stride, not expecting too much of them, but hoping for the best. The man-god goes well in such countries as Germany and Russia, but not in the United States where we have elected all sorts of personalities to the presidency and other high offices. We usually do not believe that the office turns a human being into something else just because he stepped into new shoes.

If Eisenhower's regents stopped their propaganda, he would have little trouble convincing his voters that he is entitled to be elected because he is just plain Ike. The harder they work on the "Papa knows best" concept, pushing him out of a convalescence too fast but not giving him a Christmas message to read—something that has become customary with American presidents—and putting him on a closed television circuit to address Republicans instead of the nation—the more they do of this sort of thing, the more they will hurt his chances. Ike has never been well served as president; he has overcome the lack of skill of his entourage by the magnetism of his personality.

And whoever, on his staff, encouraged the re-emergence of Thomas E. Dewey, who while he was popular as New York State's governor brought the Republican party nothing but hard luck on the national scale, pulled a boner. It is possible that the voter will not have a keen look at the Republican candidate for vice president. It is in the tea-leaves. Therefore, if the Republicans nominate a vice president who will be a mill-stone weighting down Eisenhower, they will be heavily handicapped.

Ike's heart can heal and he can be useful for many years to come; or, he may have some more trouble. But let us keep that out of politics. We might as well examine some candidates' heads to discover if there is anything therein besides self-glorification, conceit, and ambition.

There Is No Fun, Pearson Learns, In Being Locked In An Iron Lung

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The other evening I went down to the Providence Hospital in Washington and did a telecast from inside an iron lung. I confess that I approached the assignment with no particular qualms and the feeling that this might be a good way to sneak in a few hours of rest. I also confess that I never wanted to get out of a tight spot so much in my life.

I found my self locked in, an air-tight pad around my neck, head out in the free world, body a prisoner, hands unable to touch my head, unable even to scratch my nose . . . You can see the world around you through a mirror, but you can't see your feet, arms, any part of you. . . . It's as if your head were completely severed from your body. . . . A body that breathes whether you want it to or not. . . . breathes in quick intakes or long intakes according to how your nurse adjusts the speed of the bellows at the end of the lung. . . . She turns a gadget and you breathe — up and down, faster, slower, whether you want to breathe that way or not.

It's an eerie sound, that breathing, like the wash of waves on the shore, a steady pounding of the air, pounding in, sucking out, forcing your lungs to expand and contract. . . Pound-suck . . . Expand-contract. . . In-out. . . All night long. You have to coordinate and cooperate. You don't argue with an iron lung. It's the boss. It does the breathing. And the sooner you relax and let it do the work the better off you are.

So you lie there with that pound, pound, pound forcing your own lungs open and closed; and finally you get over the initial stages of claustrophobia and settle down as I did to several hours of talking to a nearby patient, Mrs. Betty Grant, on how to live in an iron lung and on its importance in the present battle against polio.

Basil O'Connor's Debt

I suppose my colleagues will be kidding me about putting across a newspaper stunt, and of course telecasting or dictating a column from an iron lung might be classified as such.

But it came about when I reported what most people didn't then know, that Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, had gone out and borrowed $9,000,000 to finance the manufacture of Salk vaccine last winter so American children could have that precious preventive one year early.

Naturally he now has to pay the money back. And to help pay it back I agreed to become chairman of Iron Lung Day to help raise money for the March of Dimes and to help put an iron lung in every community.

You can't be chairman of Iron Lung Day until you've been in one of these contraptions and know something about it. Hence the telecast and the hours lying on your back listening to that eerie pound of the air swishing into the lung, compressing-expanding your own lung, swish-suck, swish-suck, in and out, as your chest goes up and down.

Adult Polio Increases

Despite the miracle of the Salk vaccine, one tragedy about polio is that the proportion of adult polio is increasing. FDR was stricken, it should be remembered, at the age of 39. Since then, in fact, since 1944, adult polio has increased 25 per cent. Yet it will be five years before there will be enough Salk vaccine to get around to treating adults. Meanwhile the type that usually strikes them is bulbar polio, paralysis of the chest, which requires an iron lung immediately and constantly.

If the patient doesn't have an iron lung, he dies. Or if he's taken out of the lung for more than a minute or two, he dies. That air rushing into the lung, that eerie pound-swish that I had such a hard time getting used to, is life to a polio patient.

Iron lungs are expensive. They cost $1,650 out of March of Dimes funds. Attachments may add up to another $1,500. A portable chest respirator to permit the patient to go from one hospital to another or one room to another costs $1,550 to $1,740. A rocking hospital bed to coax the patient's chest back into the habit of breathing, after he's been in the lung for a couple of months, costs $775.

All this is so expensive that almost no patients can afford private treatment. They must become charges of the March of Dimes.

"We could hardly get along without the equipment and help furnished us by the March of Dimes," Sister Mary Ellen, graciously efficient superintendent of Providence Hospital, told me.

29 Million For Care

This is one of the heaviest expenses of the polio foundation, namely, taking care of patients already stricken with polio, both children and adults. But despite the discovery of Salk vaccine, they cannot be abandoned. So, in addition to raising money to pay off Basil O'Connor's $9,000,000 debt for the Salk vaccine, 68,000 patients already stricken and on the road to recovery need funds for leg braces, wheel chairs, nursing care, and therapeutic treatment. Last year the foundation spent $29,600,000 on their care and recovery.

Ike's Message Of Moderation Reassuring Abroad

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—For more than 112 years — from the presidency of John Adams to the presidency of Woodrow Wilson—no president ever read any message in person to Congress.

President Jefferson abandoned the personal-delivery idea of Washington and Adams, declaring it to be too much like the "Speech from the Throne" in England.

So President Eisenhower's enforced vacation compelled a return to what had been for decades the usual custom of the executive in having messages presented to Congress by reading clerks.

Worldwide Significance

There are many advantages in a personal appearance — advantages which have to do with greater emphasis on the points of the messages before a bigger audience than might read all of the text in the press. Mr. Eisenhower wisely decided to make a summary before the TV and news-reel cameras which gave the nighttime audiences a personal delivery of about the same amount of words as are usually selected from the long addresses. In fact, it may be questioned whether enough people have the time during the day anyway to watch TV or listen to the radio when there is a message read by a president. Certainly more citizens hear the extracts given in the evening over radio and TV.

What Mr. Eisenhower said in his message, of course, had worldwide significance, when he dealt with such questions as foreign policy and economic and military aid to allies. There will be reassurance abroad, because the President asks Congress for a long-range program of financial measures which can help stabilize the relations between the United States and its allies.

The words of caution uttered by the President with reference to trusting Soviet policies will be noted around the world. While not relaxing any effort to promote peace by sound methods, the President made it clear he isn't being fooled by Soviet smiles or aggravated by Communist invectives.

Crusade Not Abandoned

There was throughout the message a note of moderation which will make a favorable impression broad, because it shows that despite the discouraging behavior of the Soviet leaders and spokesmen, the United States is not abandoning its crusade for peace.

On domestic policies, the message is a masterful presentation of a lot of delicate points that are bound to be the basis of debate in this campaign year. Mr. Eisenhower, like other presidents, has had the benefit of lengthy memoranda from cabinet officers and other advisers and, as usual, the "State of the Union" message is a collaboration of many minds. Running through it, however, is the Eisenhower philosophy of "dynamic conservatism" and progressive thought in the realm of economics as well as social welfare.

Perhaps the outstanding declaration—which will be further amplified when the April tax receipts are counted—relates to tax policy. The President and his cabinet are well aware of the strategy of the Democrats in proclaiming for many months now a promise of tax reduction. It took courage, therefore, for the President to say that he would not favor tax reduction unless and until the budget is balanced.

But nobody knows at the moment what the budget situation will be by next June, when a new tax law might be up for consideration by Congress. Much will depend on the trend of the current tax receipts. Heretofore the Treasury, under all recent administrations, has under-estimated receipts and over-estimated expenditures. Maybe that's a good mistake to make in the preliminary appraisals.

But it does seem that the revenues derived from a year like 1955, which broke many records in business expansion, may surprise the Treasury not only on total taxes collected from corporations but from individuals as well.

Country Will Know

The President has said that he believes a "modest" amount should be applied to reducing the national debt. Even the use of half-billion for this purpose would not be insignificant so far as improving the position and prestige of the American dollar throughout the world. If the rest of a three-billion-dollar surplus, for example, were used for tax reduction, the country would accord the Eisenhower administration full credit for a remarkable achievement after a series of almost continuous annual deficits during this and preceding administrations.

The political strategists, especially on the Democratic side, will attempt to beat the President to it by offering tax-reduction measures right away, but the country will know that, if an unexpected increase in tax collections occurs, it will be because of an unprecedented prosperity achieved under the Eisenhower regime

There are in the President's message many recommendations that have been made before, and the wording of a message of this kind is done carefully so as to endeavor to get maximum advantage with public opinion. Hence there is a difference between hopes, aspirations, promises and expressions of lofty purpose and what is finally ironed out between the rival parties in both houses.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Since the invention of the glass-topped table so many married couples aren't kicking each other under the table.

Democrats were under similar restrictions during Ike's convalescence. They actually acted like gentlemen without benefit of previous experience.

We congratulate them on their glass-topped Chesterfieldian armistice.

No fair fighter kicks an opponent when he's down. You can get better results kneeing him when he's standing up.

We are contented as a dairy herd to see that chivalry is not dead in America but smoldering.

We tend our slightly evaporated appreciation to the Democratic National Committee for throttling down the engine. While they were changing tires.

What Time Have You?

By Brother Barnabas

Coming down to work on the morning of January 2, the undersigned stopped at a certain store window to get the correct time from the electric clock that is placed there by the obliging proprietor for the benefit of the time-serving public.

He found the clock out of commission. Time itself had marched right on, leaving the time keeper at a standstill, with its hands pointing ambiguously at 1:30.

What had happened was anybody's guess. It may have been working overtime during the holiday rush and needed a rest.

It may have been sleeping in like the rest of the population after a night of revelry or sanctimonious watch meeting.

Flunked Out

The fact remains that the instrument had flunked out, and anything or anybody that fails to do the thing it is set up to do needs a general overhauling or else.

Don't neglect your timepiece. You may miss a deal, or a date with a pretty girl.

I'll see you at 9
Under the clock.
I was there at the place
But you were not.
We didn't meet, you see,
I was there at 9 a. m.,
You arrived at 9 p.

Two crapulent fellows exchanged greetings after a New Year's celebration. "Good mornin' " saluted one. "It ain't good mornin', it's good evenin'," returned the other.

We'll ask the man comin' down the walk. "You'll have to 'scuse me, I'm a stranger around here myself," said he.

A panhandler asked a Scotch deacon for a loan of a dollar, quoting the scripture: "With the Lord one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day" (2 Peter 3:8). The canny Scott replied, "I'll lend you the dollar—in a minute."

Life is measured not by the ticking of a clock, but by the quality of the stuff you put into it. You may make of yourself a demijohn or a demigod.

Flash! Mrs. Mattie Michener will celebrate her 90th birthday today at her home in Tiffin, Ohio. She will be showered with greetings from friends far and near. Her mind is as clear as a bell, she reads her Bible without glasses, attends church regularly and of course is a member of the W.C.T.U.

Profit By Mistakes

The kind of life one lives is more important than the years. Good living inures to longevity. "With long life I will satisfy him, and show him my salvation" (Psalms 91:16).

What time have you? Do you persist in writing 1955? It's time to hitch up your belt and consolidate your gains from last year. The man who does not profit by his mistake is a profligate.

New Year's resolutions have worth as long as they last, but their mortality rate is high. It's hard to teach an old dog new tricks.

At our house we have recently annexed a Siamese cat. He is affectionate but fickle. He thinks I'm a Fifth columnist and not another one on the editorial page But he knows how to adjust himself to his family connections and does it.

Not so with some folks I know. We acquire a mindset that is hard to smash. A friend gave me a bronze till for Christmas. I has compartments for a man's watch, keys, bill book, and loose change, and would be a convenient device for a wife desiring to inspect her husband's earthly goods while he sleeps.

The first morning after its installation I left the house without transfering back these essential utilities. And when I dug down for the penny collection at church, I found myself sans everything, and had to crawl home on hands and knees and in at the window, figuratively speaking.

Ask a half-dozen men the time, and you will receive a half-dozen answers. They don't make time, they record it, and all men are fallible.

Pumpkin or Squash?

We all need a periodical check-up. We may find that we are improving, or retrograding, physically, mentally or morally.

You think you are some pumpkin, you may be some squash. "No man should think of himself more highly than he ought to think" (Romans 12:3).

You look down on your neighbor, you may need a ladder to climb up to his level.

Try to see things in their true perspective. If the Eisenhowers attend a wedding, don't overlook the fact that the bride and groom were among those present.

George Bernard Shaw once suggested that in a properly organized society all who committed crimes would be put in hospitals, while those who contracted common colds would be put in jail.

Ply your questions, but have patience to wait for the answers. Sandy wired a marriage proposal to Miranda and waited all day around the telegraph office for an answer. The agent remarked that a woman who would be so indifferent would never be a good wife anyway.

"Nay, she's the one for me, she waited for the night rates."

Go to church when you are young. When you are old the benches will be too hard to sit on, says

Poor Circulation Victims Must Watch Their Feet

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Old John had been a patient in our circulation clinic for many years. He had hardening of the arteries of the legs and suffered from cramping in one calf or the other whenever he walked too fast or too far. Stopping for a moment brought relief.

This elderly gentleman found he could prevent distress by not walking far or fast enough to bring it on. Having to stop in the middle of the block was embarrassing and he preferred to walk through the alleys or along streets with shops. Here John could pause and passersby thought he was window shopping.

John had visited the clinic so often he knew most of the answers. While sitting in the waiting room he acted as the best press agent we had. More than once he was overheard reassuring a patient who was worried about developing gangrene or warning an uncooperative individual about the consequences if he didn't do "what the docs said."

He was philosophical about his own condition and thankful that his legs had aged faster than his heart or brain. "If these old dogs of mine hadn't gone to pot first, I might have died of a heart attack long ago."

He had reference to a patient of ours whose leg circulation had improved to such an extent that he took long walks which made his old ticker suffer. The exercise was too much for the man's heart and before long, we were treating him for angina pectoris.

There was no medical reason for John to come to the clinic every week because he had little or no distress and had learned to take meticulous care of his feet. We always suspected that he enjoyed his visits because they represented the social event of the week. His wife had died years before and his nearest relative was a nephew who was going to college.

This young man had contracted ringworm of the feet, which he treated with tincture of iodine. One day John noticed a patch of irritation on a big toe and his nephew decided it might be ringworm and doused the area with the only remedy he knew — tincture of iodine. That night, John was unable to sleep because of severe pain in the treated foot.

Next day the part was gangrenous and he ultimately lost the toe and part of the foot. The lad did not realize that poor circulation leaves an extremity in a precarious condition: it has no defense against medicines that burn, injury, infections, or overexposure to heat and cold. This explains why victims of poor circulation must handle their feet with care and never apply anything that will burn or irritate the skin.

Handbook On Reds A Public Service

If the best way to fight an enemy effectively is to know him thoroughly, the Senate subcommittee on internal security has performed a distinct public service by publishing its new handbook on the Communist party and its activities in the United States.

The subcommittee has adopted the sound theory that only a public fully informed on what the Reds are up to can cope with them. Such agencies as the police and the FBI are essential but they cannot be completely effective unless the public is able to spot the disguises in which communism operates.

This handbook, entitled "The Communist Party in the United States of America—What It Is, How It Works," traces the chain of command from the Politbureau in Moscow down to the local community club or front organization. It explains how and why the Communists operate through fronts, since Communists speaking openly as party members are able to make little headway in this country. It offers advice on how to recognize fronts.

And in an analysis of "What Makes a Communist Tick," it finds that alleged inequalities are less the cause of communism than the type of individual attracted to this cause. These are adventurous spirits who thrive on the conspiratorial atmosphere, "mission-minded" intellectuals, maladjusted individuals, and those with an axe to grind.

Communism in America is not large. The total fixed membership of the party, according to the FBI, is only 22,663. The subcommittee figures at least 10 times that number are sympathizers. The danger lies in the fact that people may be unable to recognize those who work for communism under their various disguises.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Ike's Heart

I recently read two editorials asking President Eisenhower not to run again. Both appeared in a newspaper dedicated to the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson. It seemed to me that both articles missed the point: it is the right of any American to run for the presidency; the choice of election rests with the people. They can choose whomever they desire among the candidates offered by the politicians. If the voters, come next November, decide that they prefer a man of doubtful availability to a man with a doubtful heart, that will be their choice. None of this argument forbids Eisenhower to be a candidate, to be elected or defeated as the fortunes of politics dictate on election day.

The Stevenson people object to Eisenhower running because they believe that whereas Eisenhower can be elected, no other Republican can be. Many Republicans believe that any Republican can be elected except Dewey. Many Democrats believe that any Democrat, except Stevenson, can this year defeat any Republican including Eisenhower. All this is speculative and in January of an election year is nonsense. No one knows in January what the voters will do in November.

Ike's heart is a bit of a problem, principally because the man is so favored as a person. No one wishes him bad luck, not even his opponents in the Republican or Democratic party. Quite apart from the presidency, he is a good guy. He has always known how to make himself liked and if he has opponents and adversaries today, it is because he entered upon a role in life where opponents and adversaries are essential to good government.

The papa-complex which the regency has foisted upon the Republican party, and which it is now attempting to foist upon the American voters who like Ike as a man but are dubious about his being a god-on-earth, will do him more harm than good. It is this rather than Eisenhower's heart that is likely to make trouble for him politically. The last man-god we had was Franklin D. Roosevelt and the record as it unfolds about his third and fourth terms is very sad. Had he been satisfied with just being a two-term President, he might have gone down in history as a constructive reformer. It is now clear, from the Yalta record, including Ambassador Harriman's reports to Roosevelt and later Truman, that Roosevelt knew before he died that Stalin was double-crossing him.

Americans generally take men in their stride, not expecting too much of them, but hoping for the best. The man-god goes well in such countries as Germany and Russia, but not in the United States where we have elected all sorts of personalities to the presidency and other high offices. We usually do not believe that the office turns a human being into something else just because he stepped into new shoes.

If Eisenhower's regents stopped their propaganda, he would have little trouble convincing his voters that he is entitled to be elected because he is just plain Ike. The harder they work on the "Papa knows best" concept, pushing him out of a convalescence too fast but not giving him a Christmas message to read—something that has become customary with American presidents—and putting him on a closed television circuit to address Republicans instead of the nation—the more they do of this sort of thing, the more they will hurt his chances. Ike has never been well served as president; he has overcome the lack of skill of his entourage by the magnetism of his personality.

And whoever, on his staff, encouraged the re-emergence of Thomas E. Dewey, who while he was popular as New York State's governor brought the Republican party nothing but hard luck on the national scale, pulled a boner. It is possible that the voter will not have a keen look at the Republican candidate for vice president. It is in the tea-leaves. Therefore, if the Republicans nominate a vice president who will be a mill-stone weighting down Eisenhower, they will be heavily handicapped.

Ike's heart can heal and he can be useful for many years to come; or, he may have some more trouble. But let us keep that out of politics. We might as well examine some candidates' heads to discover if there is anything therein besides self-glorification, conceit, and ambition.

There Is No Fun, Pearson Learns, In Being Locked In An Iron Lung

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The other evening I went down to the Providence Hospital in Washington and did a telecast from inside an iron lung. I confess that I approached the assignment with no particular qualms and the feeling that this might be a good way to sneak in a few hours of rest. I also confess that I never wanted to get out of a tight spot so much in my life.

I found my self locked in, an air-tight pad around my neck, head out in the free world, body a prisoner, hands unable to touch my head, unable even to scratch my nose . . . You can see the world around you through a mirror, but you can't see your feet, arms, any part of you. . . . It's as if your head were completely severed from your body. . . . A body that breathes whether you want it to or not. . . . breathes in quick intakes or long intakes according to how your nurse adjusts the speed of the bellows at the end of the lung. . . . She turns a gadget and you breathe — up and down, faster, slower, whether you want to breathe that way or not.

It's an eerie sound, that breathing, like the wash of waves on the shore, a steady pounding of the air, pounding in, sucking out, forcing your lungs to expand and contract. . . Pound-suck . . . Expand-contract. . . In-out. . All night long. You have to coordinate and cooperate. You don't argue with an iron lung. It's the boss. It does the breathing. And the sooner you relax and let it do the work the better off you are.

So you lie there with that pound, pound, pound forcing your own lungs open and closed; and finally you get over the initial stages of claustrophobia and settle down as I did to several hours of talking to a nearby patient, Mrs. Betty Grant, on how to live in an iron lung and on its importance in the present battle against polio.

Basil O'Connor's Debt

I suppose my colleagues will be kidding me about putting across a newspaper stunt, and of course telecasting or dictating a column from an iron lung might be classified as such.

But it came about when I reported what most people didn't then know, that Basil O'Connor, president of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation, had gone out and borrowed $9,000,000 to finance the manufacture of Salk vaccine last winter so American children could have that precious preventive one year early.

Naturally he now has to pay the money back. And to help pay it back I agreed to become chairman of Iron Lung Day to help raise money for the March of Dimes and to help put an iron lung in every community.

You can't be chairman of Iron Lung Day until you've been in one of these contraptions and know something about it. Hence the telecast and the hours lying on your back listening to that eerie pound of the air swishing into the lung, compressing-expanding your own lung, swish-suck, swish-suck, in and out, as your chest goes up and down.

Adult Polio Increases

Despite the miracle of the Salk vaccine, one tragedy about polio is that the proportion of adult polio is increasing. FDR was stricken, it should be remembered, at the age of 39. Since then, in fact, since 1944, adult polio has increased 25 per cent. Yet it will be five years before there will be enough Salk vaccine to get around to treating adults. Meanwhile the type that usually strikes them is bulbar polio, paralysis of the chest, which requires an iron lung immediately and constantly.

If the patient doesn't have an iron lung, he dies. Or if he's taken out of the lung for more than a minute or two, he dies. That air rushing into the lung, that eerie pound-swish that I had such a hard time getting used to, is life to a polio patient.

Iron lungs are expensive. They cost $1,650 out of March of Dimes funds. Attachments may add up to another $1,500. A portable chest respirator to permit the patient to go from one hospital to another or one room to another costs $1,550 to $1,740. A rocking hospital bed to coax the patient's chest back into the habit of breathing, after he's been in the lung for a couple of months, costs $775.

All this is so expensive that almost no patients can afford private treatment. They must become charges of the March of Dimes.

"We could hardly get along without the equipment and help furnished us by the March of Dimes," Sister Mary Ellen, graciously efficient superintendent of Providence Hospital, told me.

29 Million For Care

This is one of the heaviest expenses of the polio foundation, namely, taking care of patients already stricken with polio, both children and adults. But despite the discovery of Salk vaccine, they cannot be abandoned. So, in addition to raising money to pay off Basil O'Connor's $9,000,000 debt for the Salk vaccine, 68,000 patients already stricken and on the road to recovery need funds for leg braces, wheel chairs, nursing care, and therapeutic treatment. Last year the foundation spent $29,600,000 on their care and recovery.

Ike's Message Of Moderation Reassuring Abroad

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—For more than 112 years — from the presidency of John Adams to the presidency of Woodrow Wilson—no president ever read any message in person to Congress.

President Jefferson abandoned the personal-delivery idea of Washington and Adams, declaring it to be too much like the "Speech from the Throne" in England.

So President Eisenhower's enforced vacation compelled a return to what had been for decades the usual custom of the executive in having messages presented to Congress by reading clerks.

Worldwide Significance

There are many advantages in a personal appearance — advantages which have to do with greater emphasis on the points of the messages before a bigger audience than might read all of the text in the press. Mr. Eisenhower wisely decided to make a summary before the TV and news-reel cameras which gave the nighttime audiences a personal delivery of about the same amount of words as are usually selected from the long addresses. In fact, it may be questioned whether enough people have the time during the day anyway to watch TV or listen to the radio when there is a message read by a president. Certainly more citizens hear the extracts given in the evening over radio and TV.

What Mr. Eisenhower said in his message, of course, had world-wide significance, when he dealt with such questions as foreign policy and economic and military aid to allies. There will be reassurance abroad, because the President asks Congress for a long-range program of financial measures which can help stabilize the relations between the United States and its allies.

The words of caution uttered by the President with reference to trusting Soviet policies will be noted around the world. While not relaxing any effort to promote peace by sound methods, the President made it clear he isn't being fooled by Soviet smiles or aggravated by Communist invectives.

Crusade Not Abandoned

There was throughout the message a note of moderation which will make a favorable impression broad, because it shows that despite the discouraging behavior of the Soviet leaders and spokesmen, the United States is not abandoning its crusade for peace.

On domestic policies, the message is a masterful presentation of a lot of delicate points that are bound to be the basis of debate in this campaign year. Mr. Eisenhower, like other presidents, has had the benefit of lengthy memoranda from cabinet officers and other advisers and, as usual, the "State of the Union" message is a collaboration of many minds. Running through it, however, is the Eisenhower philosophy of "dynamic conservatism" and progressive thought in the realm of economics as well as social welfare.

Perhaps the outstanding declaration—which will be further amplified when the April tax receipts are counted—relates to tax policy. The President and his cabinet are well aware of the strategy of the Democrats in proclaiming for many months now a promise of tax reduction. It took courage, therefore, for the President to say that he would not favor tax reduction unless and until the budget is balanced.

But nobody knows at the moment what the budget situation will be by next June, when a new tax law might be up for consideration by Congress. Much will depend on the trend of the current tax receipts. Heretofore the Treasury, under all recent administrations, has under-estimated receipts and over-estimated expenditures. Maybe that's a good mistake to make in the preliminary appraisals.

But it does seem that the revenues derived from a year like 1955, which broke many records in business expansion, may surprise the Treasury not only on total taxes collected from corporations but from individuals as well.

Country Will Know

The President has said that he believes a "modest" amount should be applied to reducing the national debt. Even the use of half-billion for this purpose would not be insignificant so far as improving the position and prestige of the American dollar throughout the world. If the rest of a three-billion-dollar surplus, for example, were used for tax reduction, the country would accord the Eisenhower administration full credit for a remarkable achievement after a series of almost continuous annual deficits during this and preceding administrations.

The political strategists, especially on the Democratic side, will attempt to beat the President to it by offering tax-reduction measures right away, but the country will know that, if an unexpected increase in tax collections occurs, it will be because of an unprecedented prosperity achieved under the Eisenhower regime.

There are in the President's message many recommendations that have been made before, and the wording of a message of this kind is done carefully so as to endeavor to get maximum advantage with public opinion. Hence there is a difference between hopes, aspirations, promises and expressions of lofty purpose and what is finally ironed out between the rival parties in both houses.

Baering Down On The News

Since the invention of the glass-topped table so many married couples aren't kicking each other under the table.

Democrats were under similar restrictions during Ike's convalescence. They actually acted like gentlemen without benefit of previous experience.

We congratulate them on their glass-topped Chesterfieldian armistice.

No fair fighter kicks an opponent when he's down. You can get better results kneeing him when he's standing up.

We are contented as a dairy herd to see that chivalry is not dead in America but smoldering.

What Time Have You?

By Brother Barnabas

Coming down to work on the morning of January 2, the undersigned stopped at a certain store window to get the correct time from the electric clock that is placed there by the obliging proprietor for the benefit of the time-serving public.

He found the clock out of commission. Time itself had marched right on, leaving the time keeper at a standstill, with its hands pointing ambiguously at 1:30.

What had happened was anybody's guess. It may have been working overtime during the holiday rush and needed a rest.

It may have been sleeping in like the rest of the population after a night of revelry or sanctimonious watch meeting.

Flunked Out

The fact remains that the instrument had flunked out, and anything or anybody that fails to do the thing it is set up to do needs a general overhauling or else.

Don't neglect your timepiece. You may miss a deal, or a date with a pretty girl.

I'll see you at 9
Under the clock.
I was there at the place
But you were not.
We didn't meet, you see,
I was there at 9 a. m.,
You arrived at 9 p.

Two crapulent fellows exchanged greetings after a New Year's celebration. "Good mornin'" saluted one. "It ain't good mornin', it's good evenin'," returned the other.

We'll ask the man comin' down the walk. "You'll have to 'scuse me, I'm a stranger around here myself," said he.

A panhandler asked a Scotch deacon for a loan of a dollar, quoting the scripture: "With the Lord one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day" (2 Peter 3:8). The canny Scott replied, "I'll lend you the dollar—in a minute."

Life is measured not by the ticking of a clock, but by the quality of the stuff you put into it. You may make of yourself a demijohn or a demigod.

Flash! Mrs. Mattie Michener will celebrate her 90th birthday today at her home in Tiffin, Ohio. She will be showered with greetings from friends far and near. Her mind is as clear as a bell, she reads her Bible without glasses, attends church regularly and of course is a member of the W.C.T.U.

Profit By Mistakes

The kind of life one lives is more important than the years. Good living inures to longevity. "With long life I will satisfy him, and show him my salvation" (Psalms 91:16).

What time have you? Do you persist in writing 1955? It's time to hitch up your belt and consolidate your gains from last year. The man who does not profit by his mistake is a profligate.

New Year's resolutions have worth as long as they last, but their mortality rate is high. It's hard to teach an old dog new tricks.

At our house we have recently annexed a Siamese cat. He is affectionate but fickle. He thinks I'm a Fifth columnist and not another one on the editorial page. But he knows how to adjust himself to his family connections and does it.

Not so with some folks I know. We acquire a mindset that is hard to smash. A friend gave me a bronze till for Christmas. I has compartments for a man's watch, keys, bill book, and loose change, and would be a convenient device for a wife desiring to inspect her husband's earthly goods while he sleeps.

The first morning after its installation I left the house without transfering back these essential utilities. And when I dug down for the penny collection at church, I found myself sans everything, and had to crawl home on hands and knees and in at the window, figuratively speaking.

Ask a half-dozen men the time, and you will receive a half-dozen answers. They don't make time, they record it, and all men are fallible.

We all need a periodical check-up. We may find that we are improving, or retrograding, physically, mentally or morally.

You think you are some pumpkin, you may be some squash. "No man should think of himself more highly than he ought to think" (Romans 12:3).

Hartman, Lambert, Nield Rack Up 44; Smith Tallies 20

RIDGELEY, W. Va., Jan. 6 — Ridgeley High's Blackhawks continued on their winning ways tonight at the expense of LaSalle, 55-52. Center Ken Hartman meshed a field goal in the first period to break an 8-8 tie, and the Hawks were never headed.

Mangrum Leads In Los Angeles Open With 66

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP)—Lloyd Mangrum of the old guard of golf signalled a challenge to win the rich Los Angeles Open for the fourth time today when he whacked out a 5-under-par 66 to lead the way through the first round of play in the $30,000 winter classic.

Mangrum, now 41 and returning to major contention after a 9-month layoff, set the pace with five birdies for a score of 34-32—66 for the par 36-35—71 that faced the field of 155 at the Rancho municipal golf course.

Mangrum, still bothered by rib injuries that put him on the sidelines last spring, won the Los Angeles Open in 1949-51-53, and he played today like the dashing Mangrum of those years.

Styled now as the squire of Apple Valley, Calif., where he makes his home, the former National Open champion held a bare one stroke lead over his nearest contenders.

They were Lionel Hebert of Erie, Penn., with 34-33; long John Narnum, Belmont, Mich., 34-33, and Cecil Harris, a little known, 42-year-old club professional from nearby Whittier, 35-32.

Mangrum Leads In Los Angeles Open With 66

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP)—Lloyd Mangrum of the old guard of golf signalled a challenge to win the rich Los Angeles Open for the fourth time today when he whacked out a 5-under-par 66 to lead the way through the first round of play in the $30,000 winter classic.

Mangrum, now 41 and returning to major contention after a 9-month layoff, set the pace with five birdies for a score of 34-32—66 for the par 36-35—71 that faced the field of 155 at the Rancho municipal golf course.

Mangrum, still bothered by rib injuries that put him on the sidelines last spring, won the Los Angeles Open in 1949-51-53, and he played today like the dashing Mangrum of those years.

Styled now as the squire of Apple Valley, Calif., where he makes his home, the former National Open champion held a bare one stroke lead over his nearest contenders.

They were Lionel Hebert of Erie, Penn., with 34-33; long John Narnum, Belmont, Mich., 34-33, and Cecil Harris, a little known, 42-year-old club professional from nearby Whittier, 35-32.

McKeldin Turns Thumbs Down On Transfer Of TV Fights

State Ring Group Does About Face

Governor Reviews New York Transcript And Takes Action

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Maryland Athletic Commission acquiesced to the pressure of Gov. McKeldin today and revoked previous permission for the regular Monday night televised boxing bouts to move here from New York.

Promoters of the weekly fights at St. Nick's Arena in New York had arranged starting Jan. 23 to shift their operations to Baltimore because of a showdown between the Athletic Commission there and the New York chapter of the Boxing Managers Guild. The Commission has ordered managers to get out of the guild by Jan. 16 or lose their licenses.

The Maryland Athletic Commission on Tuesday sanctioned the Monday night fights in Baltimore and promoters had as gone as far as to rent the Coliseum.

Gov. McKeldin stepped into the picture last night and after a day-long conference by his aides with members of the Maryland Athletic Commission stated:

Urges Cancellation

"I have come to the conclusion that the new fight program, scheduled to begin on Jan. 23 at the Coliseum in Baltimore, should be cancelled.

"Consequently, I am asking the Maryland State Athletic Commission to revoke such permits as have been issued."

The governor added that the Athletic Commission had agreed to comply with his request.

The governor said his "action is based on my review of the transcript of the New York State Athletic Commission's hearings on the conduct of boxing and on the relations thereto of the activities of the Boxing Guild of New York, as well as on other information received by me today, including some in possession of the Baltimore City Police Department, and on other studies which I have conducted."

He refused to go into any detail on what influenced him in the studies to request the Athletic Commission to reverse itself.

Blasted Maryland

Julius Helfand, the New York boxing chairman who has the Boxing Guild on the run, had blasted the Maryland approval of the transfer Thursday night.

He called Bennie Trotta, the Baltimore promoter, "Frankie Carbo's representative." Helfand earlier had identified Carbo as a notorious police character with a powerful influence on boxing.

He said Trotta "met with Carbo in the city of Baltimore to engineer the deal." Trotta denied this today, saying "If they (the fights) don't come here, they go somewhere else." He has been promoting in Baltimore since 1939.

Helfand said it seemed to him other state commissions had a "very simple choice—to align themselves with law and order or to side with a corrupt organization that will destroy boxing."

Asks Explanation

This prompted Gov. McKeldin to take cognizance of his commission's action Tuesday in sanctioning approval of the Monday fights.

"I don't believe we want them to hold bouts in Baltimore if they cannot hold them in New York," he said. He then called upon the commission to explain what happened.

The three-man commission is appointed by the governor but he cannot order it to do anything.

Prior to sanctioning the transfer, J Marshall Boone, chairman of the commission, had telegraphed Helfand congratulations on outlawing the Boxers Guild. Boone, asked for an explanation of the subsequent commission approval of the bouts, said he wasn't required to vote and didn't. As chairman, he votes only when there is a tie.

Segula Is Purchased For Record $126,000

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 6 (AP) — Segula, mother of Nashua and carrying a full brother or sister to the near-millionaire star of thoroughbred racing, sold for a fabulous $126,000, a record price for a mare at an American auction.

Humphrey Finney, an agent who reportedly acted for a London shipping magnate, Stavros Niarchos, bought the 14-year-old dark bay mare after outbidding Walter Michels of Bucyrus, Ohio.

All told, 16 yearlings and 23 broodmares once belonging to the late William Woodward Jr. sold for [illegible]924,100 in two and one-half hours of spirited bidding.

West Virginia Will End Hunting Season

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—Tomorrow will be the last day for legal hunting of three types of game in West Virginia.

Jan. 7 is the final day of seasons for grouse, cottontail rabbit and hare. The grouse season began Oct. 15 and rabbits have been legal game since Nov. 11.

Dodgers Are Voted As Top Team Of '55

Oklahoma Second, San Francisco 3rd

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

It's no longer proper, even in Brooklyn, to refer to the Dodgers as "Dem Bums"—they're the team of the year.

One hundred and seven sports writers and broadcasters said so on their ballots in the Associated Press year-end poll. What's more, all but 15 experts who voted but failed to list the Dodgers first, put Brooklyn down as either the second or third team.

That gave Brooklyn a whopping point total of 419 ir a vote that virtually ignored the top teams of other sports. Points were counted on a 3-2-1 basis and the Dodgers drew 41 second-place votes and 16 thirds.

Oklahoma Is 2nd

Oklahoma's all-winning football team took second place with 211 points, the University of San Francisco's national collegiate basketball champions third with 145 and the Cleveland Browns of pro football fourth with 98.

The Dodgers, it might be said, earned the top designation twice. First they ran off with the National League pennant, leading the race by 12½ games midway through the season and clinching the title 17 days before the season closed—the earliest date in history.

In spite of the Brooks' dominance in their league, the Yankees were favored to win the World Series. After all, the Dodgers had tried seven times previously and never had won. It looked like a cinch when the Yanks took the first two series games. No team ever had come back to win a best-of-seven series after losing the first two.

But the Dodgers did it, winning three in a row to take the lead, losing the sixth game and then coming through in the deciding contest.

Spartans Are Fifth

Cleveland's Browns, who won the Eastern Division championship in the National Football League, drew 10 first place votes and 98 points. Michigan State's football team, which earned the Big Ten's Rose Bowl nomination by finishing second to Ohio State, placed fifth in the voting with three first and 45 points. The Australian Davis Cup tennis team received 16 points, the Maryland football team 13 and the Syracuse Nationals of pro basketball eleven.

Giese Signs 3-Year Pact As Head Coach At South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C., Jan. 6 (AP) — Warren Giese, chief assistant to Maryland's Jim Tatum, has signed a three-year contract as head football coach at the University of South Carolina.

The announcement, made by President Donald Russell, also said Rex Enright will retire as head of the coaching staff and devote his full time as athletic director.

Giese's contract calls for a reported $12,000 a year. He will be permitted to choose two new assistant coaches to join the present staff, which will be retained.

Enright thus ends one of the nation's longest tenures as head coach at a major college. He took the job here in 1938.

Enright, a Notre Dame graduate, said in a statement: "With the increased tempo and exacting duties I will devote my full time to the athletic directorship."

Stotz Restrained By Court Order

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 6 (AP) — A federal judge today issued a temporary injunction restraining Carl E. Stotz, former Little League baseball commissioner, from setting up a rival boys' baseball organization.

Judge Frederick V. Follmer ruled that Stotz must not use any Little League trade marks or other features of the Little League, Inc., baseball organization pending outcome of court litigation in a suit brought by Stotz against Little League.

Mutuel Handle Hits Million Ninth Time At Tropical Park

Ussery Has Triple, Boosts Wins To 42

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP) — A. J. Mesler's Power, going in his best form, captured the turf writers' Lady Purse at Tropical Park today under Jockey Bobby Ussery, who rode three winners and pulled ahead of Willie Harack in their riding duel.

Ussery completed a triple in the ninth on Mas Importante, who paid $19.60, for his 42nd victory of the meet. Hartack, who rode two winners today, has 40.

Ussery, from Oklahoma, got his second marker aboard Power, a Brookmeade Stable castoff, driving the gelding home 2 lengths before Mrs. Ben Whitaker's Flying Chief. A head away was Pin Oak Farm's War and Peace, while F. Eugene Dixon Jr's Wise Tod, Hartack up, finished fourth, another head back. Nine older horses competed in the mile and a sixteenth event. The time was 1:43 3-5 on a fast track.

Ussery got his first winner of the day on the two-year-old Maitre De, $10.80, in the third. Hartack scored with Latitude, $4.60, in the second, and All In One, $9.80, placed first Flight Admiral in the fourth.

Warmer weather prevailed and a crowd of 9,524 turned out for the 35th program of the meeting. The handle was $1,044,334, the ninth million dollar handle of the meeting, against only five during the entire season last year.

Latitude completed a daily double of $80.30 after the opener went to Bleak, a longshot winner at $35.90.

Senior Bowl Game Is Set For Mobile

South Is Favorite In Today's Contest

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 6 (AP)—Fifty of the leading collegiate football players in the nation turn professional tomorrow in the seventh annual Senior Bowl game.

The South is favored by a touchdown. Sideline observers, including about 30 pro scouts and coaches, rate the Rebels a slight edge in material over the heavier Northerners.

Paul Brown of the pro champion Browns is coaching the Southerners and Buddy Parker of the Detroit Lions is directing the Yankees.

The South hopes hinge mainly on the passing of quarterback Bob Hardy of Kentucky, who completed 58 of 106 tosses for 77 yards during the past season. He was rated the most valuable player in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery.

Opposing Hardy in the North T-Quarterback post are two Big Ten signal callers who had total gains of more than 1,000 yards during the season.

They are Iowa's Jerry Reichow, most valuable player in the East-West game at San Francisco, and Jim Haluska of Wisconsin, the nation's leading passer with 71 completions of 132 atttempted for 1,036 yards.

Bob Pellegrini, Maryland's 225-pound All-America center, will pivot the South's defensive platoon as the middle guard.

Members of the winning team receive $500 each, the losers get $400. The game will be broadcast over the Mutual network. It will not be televised.

Tatum Expected To Make Switch

Confers With North Carolina Officials

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Jan. 6 (AP) —Jim Tatum, Maryland's nine-term head football coach, seemed assured of returning to North Carolina, his alma mater, tonight, but announcement of the switch apparently was bogged down in a mass of red tape—the clearing of the matter through various university channels. No official news was expected before tomorrow.

Tatum swept through a series of conferences with school officials during the day after his arrival from Miami, Fla., where his Maryland team lost to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl game last Monday. Almost immediately, a round of closed talks began.

Late today it boiled down to this:

Chancellor Robert B. House said he would have to clear the matter with the faculty committee on athletics and the full athletic committee, as well as Dr. J. Harris Purks, acting university president, and the executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

House would give no indication as to how the matter shaped up after a day in which Tatum had talked with C. P. (Chuck) Erickson, athletic director; Dean A. W. Hobbs, faculty chairman of athletics, and other members of the council.

Tatum and the coaches committee of the council talked for two hours this afternoon after which the group deliberated without Tatum present.

"These things take time," said House, who said some announcement might be forthcoming tomorrow.

Cuban Group Buys Louisville Franchise

BOSTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Louisville franchise of the American Assn. today was sold by the Boston Red Sox to a group of Havana, Cuba, businessmen who will complete a full working agreement with the Washington Nationals tomorrow.

The Louisville franchise will remain in the Kentucky city.

Previously there had been considerable speculation as to the locale of the club under new ownership.

Edward F. Wheeler of Havana negotiated the purchase for the Cuban combine with Sox General Manager Joe Cronin.

McKeldin Turns Thumbs Down On Transfer Of TV Fights

State Ring Group Does About Face

Governor Reviews New York Transcript And Takes Action

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Maryland Athletic Commission acquiesced to the pressure of Gov. McKeldin today and revoked previous permission for the regular Monday night televised boxing bouts to move here from New York.

Promoters of the weekly fights at St. Nick's Arena in New York had arranged starting Jan. 23 to shift their operations to Baltimore because of a showdown between the Athletic Commission there and the New York chapter of the Boxing Managers Guild. The Commission has ordered managers to get out of the guild by Jan. 16 or lose their licenses.

The Maryland Athletic Commission on Tuesday sanctioned the Monday night fights in Baltimore and promoters had as gone as far as to rent the Coliseum.

Gov. McKeldin stepped into the picture last night and after a day-long conference by his aides with members of the Maryland Athletic Commission stated:

Urges Cancellation

"I have come to the conclusion that the new fight program, scheduled to begin on Jan. 23 at the Coliseum in Baltimore, should be cancelled.

"Consequently, I am asking the Maryland State Athletic Commission to revoke such permits as have been issued."

The governor added that the Athletic Commission had agreed to comply with his request.

The governor said his "action is based on my review of the transcript of the New York State Athletic Commission's hearings on the conduct of boxing and on the relations thereto of the activities of the Boxing Guild of New York, as well as on other information received by me today, including some in possession of the Baltimore City Police Department, and on other studies which I have conducted."

He refused to go into any detail on what influenced him in the studies to request the Athletic Commission to reverse itself.

Blasted Maryland

Julius Helfand, the New York boxing chairman who has the Boxing Guild on the run, had blasted the Maryland approval of the transfer Thursday night.

He called Bennie Trotta, the Baltimore promoter, "Frankie Carbo's representative." Helfand earlier had identified Carbo as a notorious police character with a powerful influence on boxing.

He said Trotta "met with Carbo in the city of Baltimore to engineer the deal." Trotta denied this today, saying "If they (the fights) don't come here, they go somewhere else." He has been promoting in Baltimore since 1939.

Helfand said it seemed to him other state commissions had a "very simple choice—to align themselves with law and order or to side with a corrupt organization that will destroy boxing."

Asks Explanation

This prompted Gov. McKeldin to take cognizance of his commission's action Tuesday in sanctioning approval of the Monday fights.

"I don't believe we want them to hold bouts in Baltimore if they cannot hold them in New York," he said. He then called upon the commission to explain what happened.

The three-man commission is appointed by the governor but he cannot order it to do anything.

Prior to sanctioning the transfer, J Marshall Boone, chairman of the commission, had telegraphed Helfand congratulations on outlawing the Boxers Guild. Boone, asked for an explanation of the subsequent commission approval of the bouts, said he wasn't required to vote and didn't. As chairman, he votes only when there is a tie.

Segula Is Purchased For Record $126,000

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 6 (AP) — Segula, mother of Nashua and carrying a full brother or sister to the near-millionaire star of thoroughbred racing, sold for a fabulous $126,000, a record price for a mare at an American auction.

Humphrey Finney, an agent who reportedly acted for a London shipping magnate, Stavros Niarchos, bought the 14-year-old dark bay mare after outbidding Walter Michels of Bucyrus, Ohio.

All told, 16 yearlings and 23 broodmares once belonging to the late William Woodward Jr. sold for $1,024,100 in two and one-half hours of spirited bidding.

West Virginia Will End Hunting Season

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 6 (AP)—Tomorrow will be the last day for legal hunting of three types of game in West Virginia.

Jan. 7 is the final day of seasons for grouse, cottontail rabbit and hare. The grouse season began Oct. 15 and rabbits have been legal game since Nov. 11.

Dodgers Are Voted As Top Team Of '55

Oklahoma Second, San Francisco 3rd

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

It's no longer proper, even in Brooklyn, to refer to the Dodgers as "Dem Bums"—they're the team of the year.

One hundred and seven sports writers and broadcasters said so on their ballots in the Associated Press year-end poll. What's more, all but 15 experts who voted but failed to list the Dodgers first, put Brooklyn down as either the second or third team.

That gave Brooklyn a whopping point total of 419 in a vote that virtually ignored the top teams of other sports. Points were counted on a 3-2-1 basis and the Dodgers drew 41 second-place votes and 16 thirds.

Oklahoma Is 2nd

Oklahoma's all-winning football team took second place with 211 points, the University of San Francisco's national collegiate basketball champions third with 145 and the Cleveland Browns of pro football fourth with 98.

The Dodgers, it might be said, earned the top designation twice. First they ran off with the National League pennant, leading the race by 12½ games midway through the season and clinching the title 17 days before the season closed—the earliest date in history.

In spite of the Brooks' dominance in their league, the Yankees were favored to win the World Series. After all, the Dodgers had tried seven times previously and never had won. It looked like a cinch when the Yanks took the first two series games. No team ever had come back to win a best-of-seven series after losing the first two.

But the Dodgers did it, winning three in a row to take the lead, losing the sixth game and then coming through in the deciding contest.

Spartans Are Fifth

Cleveland's Browns, who won the Eastern Division championship in the National Football League, drew 10 first place votes and 98 points. Michigan State's football team, which earned the Big Ten's Rose Bowl nomination by finishing second to Ohio State, placed fifth in the voting with three first and 45 points. The Australian Davis Cup tennis team received 16 points, the Maryland football team 13 and the Syracuse Nationals of pro basketball eleven.

Giese Signs 3-Year Pact As Head Coach At South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C., Jan. 6 (AP) — Warren Giese, chief assistant to Maryland's Jim Tatum, has signed a three-year contract as head football coach at the University of South Carolina.

The announcement, made by President Donald Russell, also said Rex Enright will retire as head of the coaching staff and devote his full time as athletic director.

Giese's contract calls for a reported $12,000 a year. He will be permitted to choose two new assistant coaches to join the present staff, which will be retained.

Enright thus ends one of the nation's longest tenures as head coach at a major college. He took the job here in 1938.

Enright, a Notre Dame graduate, said in a statement: "With the increased tempo and exacting duties I will devote my full time to the athletic directorship."

Stotz Restrained By Court Order

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 6 (AP) — A federal judge today issued a temporary injunction restraining Carl E. Stotz, former Little League baseball commissioner, from setting up a rival boys' baseball organization.

Judge Frederick V. Follmer ruled that Stotz must not use any Little League trade marks or other features of the Little League, Inc., baseball organization pending outcome of court litigation in a suit brought by Stotz against Little League.

Mutuel Handle Hits Million Ninth Time At Tropical Park

Ussery Has Triple, Boosts Wins To 42

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP) — A. J. Mesler's Power, going in his best form, captured the turf writers' Lady Purse at Tropical Park today under Jockey Bobby Ussery, who rode three winners and pulled ahead of Willie Harack in their riding duel.

Ussery completed a triple in the ninth on Mas Importante, who paid $19.60, for his 42nd victory of the meet. Hartack, who rode two winners today, has 40.

Ussery, from Oklahoma, got his second marker aboard Power, a Brookmeade Stable castoff, driving the gelding home 2 lengths before Mrs. Ben Whitaker's Flying Chief. A head away was Pin Oak Farm's War and Peace, while F. Eugene Dixon Jr's Wise Tod, Hartack up, finished fourth, another head back. Nine older horses competed in the mile and a sixteenth event. The time was 1:43 3-5 on a fast track.

Ussery got his first winner of the day on the two-year-old Maitre De, $10.80, in the third. Hartack scored with Latitude, $4.60, in the second, and All In One, $9.80, placed first Flight Admiral in the fourth.

Warmer weather prevailed and a crowd of 9,524 turned out for the 35th program of the meeting. The handle was $1,044,334, the ninth million dollar handle of the meeting, against only five during the entire season last year.

Latitude completed a daily double of $80.30 after the opener went to Bleak, a longshot winner at $35.90.

Senior Bowl Game Is Set For Mobile

South Is Favorite In Today's Contest

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 6 (AP)—Fifty of the leading collegiate football players in the nation turn professional tomorrow in the seventh annual Senior Bowl game.

The South is favored by a touchdown. Sideline observers, including about 30 pro scouts and coaches, rate the Rebels a slight edge in material over the heavier Northerners.

Paul Brown of the pro champion Browns is coaching the Southerners and Buddy Parker of the Detroit Lions is directing the Yankees.

The South hopes hinge mainly on the passing of quarterback Bob Hardy of Kentucky, who completed 58 of 106 tosses for 77 yards during the past season. He was rated the most valuable player in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery.

Opposing Hardy in the North T-Quarterback post are two Big Ten signal callers who had total gains of more than 1,000 yards during the season.

They are Iowa's Jerry Reichow, most valuable player in the East-West game at San Francisco, and Jim Haluska of Wisconsin, the nation's leading passer with 71 completions of 132 atttempted for 1,036 yards.

Bob Pellegrini, Maryland's 225-pound All-America center, will pivot the South's defensive platoon as the middle guard.

Members of the winning team receive $500 each, the losers get $400. The game will be broadcast over the Mutual network. It will not be televised.

Tatum Expected To Make Switch

Confers With North Carolina Officials

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Jan. 6 (AP)—Jim Tatum, Maryland's nine-term head football coach, seemed assured of returning to North Carolina, his alma mater, tonight, but announcement of the switch apparently was bogged down in a mass of red tape—the clearing of the matter through various university channels. No official news was expected before tomorrow.

Tatum swept through a series of conferences with school officials during the day after his arrival from Miami, Fla., where his Maryland team lost to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl game last Monday. Almost immediately, a round of closed talks began.

Late today it boiled down to this:

Chancellor Robert B. House said he would have to clear the matter with the faculty committee on athletics and the full athletic committee, as well as Dr. J. Harris Purks, acting university president, and the executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

House would give no indication as to how the matter shaped up after a day in which Tatum had talked with C. P. (Chuck) Erickson, athletic director; Dean A. W. Hobbs, faculty chairman of athletics, and other members of the council.

Tatum and the coaches committee of the council talked for two hours this afternoon after which the group deliberated without Tatum present.

"These things take time," said House, who said some announcement might be forthcoming tomorrow.

Cuban Group Buys Louisville Franchise

BOSTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — The Louisville franchise of the American Assn. today was sold by the Boston Red Sox to a group of Havana, Cuba, businessmen who will complete a full working agreement with the Washington Nationals tomorrow.

The Louisville franchise will remain in the Kentucky city.

Previously there had been considerable speculation as to the locale of the club under new ownership.

Frostburg Gets Audit Report For Fiscal Year

Town's Operation Is Big Business

FROSTBURG — The financial report of the City of Frostburg for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1955, as reflected in the annual audit report of James P. Rogers, certified public accountant, Baltimore, reveals that operation of the city's fiscal affairs is definitely out of the "small business" category.

The annual report released to city officials shows the following source and disposition of funds:

Revenues for the year amounted to $227,160. In addition, the city received from the state funds in the amount of $54,000 as compensation for closing Park Avenue, making a total of $281,160.

Stated in terms of cents per dollar, or percentages of total revenues, the report reveals that of each dollar of revenues received, 31 cents was contributed by general property taxpayers; 13 cents by state shared revenues; 22 cents by water consumers; nine cents from licenses and permits; and 25 cents from other sources.

Expenditures for the year amounted to $279,029 as follows:

Salaries, $101,907; other operating expenses, $65,527; capital outlay, $67,520; retirement of bonded indebtedness, $30,000; and interest charges of $14,075.

In terms of percentages or cents per dollar of expenditures, the cost of operating the city's government for the year reveals various facts.

Of each dollar of expenditures, five cents was spent for general government or administration; 16 cents for public safety or police and fire protection; 39 cents for street maintenance and improvements; five and one-half cents for sanitation and waste removal; three and one-half cents for recreation; 14 cents for water service; 16 cents for debt service, or payments of bond principal and interest, and one cent for miscellaneous costs such as workmen's compensation, insurance premiums, the city's share of employes' Social Security taxes, contribution to local non-profit organizations, etc.

Capital outlay for street improvements during the year accounted for approximately $57,400 of the total expenditures for fixed assets during the year.

Apple Growers Are Advised To Increase Production

Urged To Plant New Trees Now

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 6 (AP)—Apple growers were told today the nation will have to produce 18 million more bushels of apples in the next 10 years to keep up with the present rate of consumption.

Fred W. Burrows of Washington, D. C., executive vice president of the International Apple Assn., said growers should be planting their orchards of tomorrow right now.

He told some 200 delegates to the annual meeting of the Maryland Horticulture Society that present apple production will not meet the demand for apples in "tomorrow's keenly competitive world" where he said there would be no room for the "marginal producers and merchandiser."

Burrows said the present rate of consumption is 30 pounds of apples per person, per year.

On that basis, Burrows said it was his opinion the "nation's apple potential is not now capable of meeting the need of our dynamic growth in population."

Norman J. Fike of Cordova, Md., was elected president of the society which embraces apple growers in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia. He succeeds William C. Main.

Other officers elected were Russell N. Flanagan, Thurmont, vice president; and Albert F. Bierheller, College Park, secretary-treasurer.

Apple Growers Are Advised To Increase Production

Urged To Plant New Trees Now

HAGERSTOWN, Jan. 6 (AP)—Apple growers were told today the nation will have to produce 18 million more bushels of apples in the next 10 years to keep up with the present rate of consumption.

Fred W. Burrows of Washington, D. C., executive vice president of the International Apple Assn., said growers should be planting their orchards of tomorrow right now.

He told some 200 delegates to the annual meeting of the Maryland Horticulture Society that present apple production will not meet the demand for apples in "tomorrow's keenly competitive world" where he said there would be no room for the "marginal producers and merchandiser."

Burrows said the present rate of consumption is 30 pounds of apples per person, per year.

On that basis, Burrows said it was his opinion the "nation's apple potential is not now capable of meeting the need of our dynamic growth in population."

Norman J. Fike of Cordova, Md., was elected president of the society which embraces apple growers in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia. He succeeds William C. Main.

Other officers elected were Russell N. Flanagan, Thurmont, vice president; and Albert F. Bierheller, College Park, secretary-treasurer.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

HE DEFEATED HIMSELF

IN THE following hand South lost an outstanding opportunity at the very first trick.

South dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

	North
	♠ A Q ♥ K 10 ♦ A 10 7 5 4 3 ♣ K 9 8
West ♠ J 10 9 5 2 ♥ Q 8 7 4 ♦ K J 6 ♣ 5	N W E S	East ♠ K 7 6 4 3 ♥ A J 6 5 2 ♦ Q 9 ♣ 2
	♠ 8 ♥ 9 3 ♦ 8 2 ♣ A Q J 10 7 6 4 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4 ♣	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

Later, mournfully discussing the hand, North said that he had deliberately underbid when he raised to only five clubs, so as to be sure of cashing in the game. "I might as well have bid a slam," he said bitterly. "At least we would have had the chance for a real killing."

This, however, was not a thoughtful observation. The five-club contract had been excellent—it was only South's lack of imagination that ruined it.

If West had happened to lead a heart, South could have blamed the result on fate, but West actually opened the spade jack, which should have put quite a different face on the matter. However, South promptly played dummy's spade ace, drew the outstanding trumps, and led a diamond toward dummy, his intention being to pass the trick to East. West, however, put in the diamond jack, and when declarer went up with the ace and returned a diamond, West overtook his own partner's queen to shift to hearts. Declarer scarcely could have refused the spade finesse if he had held two or more spades, and so it was clear to West that the only hope was to get two heart tricks. Obviously, the heart shift defeated the contract.

A finesse at Trick 1 would have been a safety play for South. What if East did capture the spade queen? South could discard a diamond on the spade ace and in that way make sure that West could never get in again for the shift to hearts. Then two diamond ruffs would establish the suit, and dummy had plenty of trump entries.

The Military Play

Military plays, whether they be about war or peace, fall into classic patterns. Inevitably, someone has got to volunteer to go out on that patrol or to try out the new escape hatch or whatever; invariably this leads to some soul-searching on the nature of courage, on why men risk their lives when they don't have to.

No playwright has yet come up with a satisfactory explanation of this phenomenon yet and "Bail Out At 43,000 Feet" on "Climax" the other night was no exception. This was a story about Air Force fliers who test new equipment designed to get a man safely down from that frightful altitude by parachute. To do it properly, we are told at the outset, the man has to fall free for six miles and it is that six-mile drop that makes the men understandably uneasy.

"It's not as if I'm losing my nerve," says the hero, Charlton Heston. "But God knows you don't fall six miles without worrying a little."

The quality of this worry and how it spreads through the chain of command from the old ironpants commanding officer right into Mr. Heston's home life is what made up most of the hour. Incessantly, the young fliers ask themselves: "Why do I do it?" And no one has the answer. The question is particularly agonizing because they're all volunteers. The very voluntariness of it makes it that much more binding.

It's the same old question that has echoed through every war story I can remember from "Journey's End" to "The Naked And The Dead" and the answer never gets beyond the "You do it because you just have to do it" sort of thing. It was "Wings" I believe that gave birth to that classic line: "You're not going to send that kid up in a crate like that on a night like this!"

Well, warfare has changed a lot since then but the necessity for CO's to send somebody else out to take the risks hasn't changed a bit and even the dialogue has hardly changed at all. In this case, the CC decided to take the plunge himself and was dissuaded only at the last minute by Mr. Heston who came through the six-mile fall unscathed as I rather suspected he would.

As military documentaries go, this was an earnest and honest one, full of that laconic dialogue that has become standard. One thing, I notice, that is conspicuously different about the military life, now and in the old days, is the absence of dirt. Mud and grime used to be standard equipment on all the actors. As warfare gets more supersonic, more stratospheric, the whole atmosphere gets more aseptic, more unearthly, more inhuman. The real heroes are the gadgets, not the people. If they work, it's all right; if they don't, it isn't. And it's difficult to dramatize a gadget. Jets in flight are beautiful things to watch but it's hard to feel very deeply for them.

Incidentally, "Climax" which started rather shakily a year or so ago, has become one of the better hour-long dramas of a surprising consistency.

Speaking of descents, another story on that subject was "Man On A Ledge" on the 20th Century Fox Hour. This was taken from Joel Sayre's articles in "The New Yorker" about that unfortunate young man who stood on a ledge of the Hotel Gotham for something like 14 hours before jumping to his death. In real life, the descent was made. In the TV play, taken from the picture, it isn't, the boy being dissuaded by a patrolman played by William Gargan.

The 20th Century Fox seems to be the best of the three movie-sponsored shows (Metro and Warner Brothers are the other two) but the pictures still have a B picture quality about them.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

H P H G H J E M G G H O K X, H Y M L N T M Y F H P H M Y M V G M T H X P I, Y M P P M O X G M J X P H J X G C G Y M O — P D C T A X N C I.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

HE DEFEATED HIMSELF

IN THE following hand South lost an outstanding opportunity at the very first trick.

South dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

North:
♠ A Q
♥ K 10
♦ A 10 7 5 4 3
♣ K 9 8

West:
♠ J 10 9 5 2
♥ Q 8 7 4
♦ K J 6
♣ 5

East:
♠ K 7 6 4 3
♥ A J 6 5 2
♦ Q 9
♣ 2

South:
♠ 8
♥ 9 3
♦ 8 2
♣ A Q J 10 7 6 4 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4 ♣	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

Later, mournfully discussing the hand, North said that he had deliberately underbid when he raised to only five clubs, so as to be sure of cashing in the game. "I might as well have bid a slam," he said bitterly. "At least we would have had the chance for a real killing."

This, however, was not a thoughtful observation. The five-club contract had been excellent—it was only South's lack of imagination that ruined it.

If West had happened to lead a heart, South could have blamed the result on fate, but West actually opened the spade jack, which should have put quite a different face on the matter. However, South promptly played dummy's spade ace, drew the outstanding trumps, and led a diamond toward dummy, his intention being to pass the trick to East. West, however, put in the diamond jack, and when declarer went up with the ace and returned a diamond, West overtook his own partner's queen to shift to hearts. Declarer scarcely could have refused the spade finesse if he had held two or more spades, and so it was clear to West that the only hope was to get two heart tricks. Obviously, the heart shift defeated the contract.

A finesse at Trick 1 would have been a safety play for South. What if East did capture the spade queen? South could discard a diamond on the spade ace and in that way make sure that West could never get in again for the shift to hearts. Then two diamond ruffs would establish the suit, and dummy had plenty of trump entries.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our husband, father and brother, James Foutz, Barton, Md. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral.
Mrs. James Foutz & Family.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, grandmother, and great grandmother, Mrs. Sarah C. Seggie, who passed away Jan. 7, 1948.

In the Light of God we see you
Each night when we lie down.

And see each smile and frown.
And when we are called to join you
And this world we are through,
We pray the Lord will let us go
As peaceful and brave as you.

Jaycees To Meet

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP) — Maryland Junior Chambers of Commerce representatives from chapters throughout the state will meet here tomorrow to take a stand on the proposed Maryland Port Authority.

The meeting has been called by the State Port and Industry Location Committee of the state organization.

NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 127 of the Charter of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, 1950 Edition, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and City Council of Cumbeland, did, in regular session Monday, December 19, 1955, approve the Report of Commissioners for the closing of the southerly 123.3 feet of an unnamed 16 foot alley which connects Elizabeth and Elder Streets in Walsh Addition to South Cumberland and which said alley runs parallel with and 120 feet distant from the easterly side of Lexington Avenue. Said Commissioners were appointed by virtue of Ordinance No. 2005 for the purpose of assessing any damages or benefits incurred by or accruing to any owners of property affected by the closing of said alley. After meeting on premises and hearing those persons who would be affected by the closing of said portion of said alley, the commissioners present the following:

"It is the unanimous opinion of the undersigned, that as a result of the closing of the Southerly 123.3 feet of an unnamed sixteen foot alley which connects Elizabeth and Elder Streets in Walsh Addition to South Cumberland, that no damages have been sustained and no benefits have accrued to adjacent or adjoining property owners and it is our decision that no benefits are to be levied and no damages should be assessed. However, adequate drainage should be provided through the closed portion of the alley in order to assure continued proper drainage of the immediate area.

We further direct that the Allegany Building and Land Corporation should pay all costs attendant to the closing of the said Southerly 123.3 feet of the unnamed sixteen foot alley, which proceedings were instituted at the request of said Corporation.

Any person, persons, firm or corporation feeling aggrieved by the decision of the commissioners may appeal therefrom within thirty (30) days after December 19, 1955, by filing written notice of such appeal with the City Clerk of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, who will transmit same to the Circuit Court for Allegany County to be docketed for jury trial.

No Cutback Seen At Fairchild Plant

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Air Force was reported today to have dropped plans for a production cut at the Hagerstown, Md., plant of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp.

Sen. Butler (R-Md) said he was informed that the Air Force had called off plans which Butler said would have resulted in the discharge of between 1,500 and 1,800 skilled workers.

The Air Force concluded after study, Butler said, that the proposed program would have resulted in "substantial additional cost."

"I am indeed gratified," Butler said, "that at my instigation the Air Force reversed itself on this program which would have resulted in the discharge of between 1,500 and 1,800 skilled workers and involving wages of two million dollars."

Gunman Gets 7-Year Term

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP)—Joseph Sampson, New York gunman imported to Baltimore for a 1954 robbery planned by Martin J. Yamin, today was sentenced to seven years in the House of Correction.

Judge John T. Tucker said he gave special consideration to Sampson's key position as a witness in the Brooklyn, N. Y., conviction of Yamin for a gang-style slaying. The judge said he also took into consideration's Sampson's aid in convicting John DiTommaso, another confederate with Yamin in the attempt to rob a Baltimore couple on Sept. 1, 1954.

A fourth party to the planned robbery here, Joseph Aronowitz, was murdered in New York last winter after boasting he planned to implicate Yamin in the holdup attempt. Yamin, a former substitute magistrate in Baltimore pleaded guilty to second degree murder as the hirer of Aronowitz's killer.

Sampson's sentencing cleaned up the involved case. DiTomasso was previously sentenced to 10 years in prison. Yamin is doing 20 years to life for the Aronowitz slaying and August Robles, the actual trigger man of Aronowitz, was shot down by New York police shortly after the slaying.

New York authorities appeared here earlier in the week to attest to Sampson's importance in the Yamin conviction.

As further consideration for his help in cleaning up the Baltimore robbery case, Judge Tucker said he was going to date the start of Sampson's sentence "back a little further than I would normally. I think the defendant is entitled to great liberality on the part of the court."

He dated the sentence back to Dec. 18, 1954—the date Sampson was charged with attempted robbery—and made it exclusive of 26 days Sampson was free on bail prior to his trial last February.

Two Guards Foil Attempted Holdup

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) — Two payroll guards today answered a command to "Hand over that moneybag!" with a volley of pistol shots that sent four bandits on the run—empty handed.

The attempted robbery occurred outside the Nemo corset factory, as the two guards were delivering a $10,000 payroll.

Patient Gunman Robs 10 People In 5-Hour Theft

DETROIT, Jan. 6 (AP)—A patient gunman robbed and bound 10 victims in a five-hour marathon robbery today in a basement washroom of the brand new Michigan Life Insurance Co. building in suburban Royal Oak.

The gunman's first victim was George Bundshuh, a boiler operator in the building. Bundshuh was held up in a basement corridor about 8:30 a.m., forced into the washroom and bound with tape.

Then the gunman, armed with a .38 pistol, propped Burdshuh against a wall and proceeded liesurely to follow the same routine with nine other men who innocently wandered into the washroom between 8:30 and 1:30 p.m.

At 1:30 p.m., the gunman released Bundshuh and forced him to walk in front of him out of the building which fronts Woodward Ave., one of metropolitan Detroit's most heavily travelled thoroughfares.

Police said the loot totaled about $450. They said the vicims reported their captor was polite and never complained, although one of the men didn't have a cent on him and only one of the 10 had more than $18.

Biggest loser was Angus Smith, of Royal Oak, an inspector for an architectural firm, who was carrying $400 in cash. The other nine were employes of the life insurance company.

Bundshuh said when the gunman reached the street he ordered him to walk north and "don't turn around." He said he walked half a block before turning back and calling the police.

Additional Salk Vaccine Released

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Public Health Service today announced release of another 1,017,531 doses of Salk antipolio vaccine for use by physicians and health departments.

The new vaccine was produced by Eli Lilly Co., Indianapolis, a regular contributor to the vaccine releases since production and testing standards were revised last May.

A total of 30,979,362 cubic centimeters—or doses—have now been released since the vaccine was licensed last April 12.

States and territories have been allocated 16,845,399 doses since July 31 for use by physicians and health departments under the voluntary control program.

Party Chairmen Named Panelists

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 6 (AP)—The national chairmen of the two major political parties will appear as panelists in the annual Griddle show of the Kansas City Press Club March 6.

John J. Doohan, club president, said today Republican Leonard W. Hall and Democrat Paul M. Butler have agreed to appear on a panel to answer questions by members of the club, a professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi journalism fraternity. The questions in the annual affair range from humorous to serious discussions.

Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star, will be the moderator.

Rifle Grenade Injures Worker

ABERDEEN, Md., Jan. 6 (AP) — Joseph E. Strong, 31-year-old employe of the development and proof services at Aberdeen Proving Ground, was injured critically today when a rifle grenade he was testing suddenly exploded in his hands.

Strong was rushed to the post hospital by an ambulance. Amputation of his right hand and foot was required, it was reported. He also suffered lacerations over most of his body from the grenade fragments and apparently lost the vision in his right eye.

Garbage Collectors Outearn Teachers

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. Jan. 6 (AP)—Garbage collectors here outearn teachers and policemen.

Under a new contract signed between contractor James Petrozello of East Orange, and the Local 945 of the Teamsters Union drivers on garbage trucks will receive $114 for a 40-hour week and loaders will get $104 a week.

Springfield teachers earn between $3,300 and $5,500 a year.

And only the chief of police makes more than the garbage truck drivers. His men make less.

Stratton To Seek Another Term

MORRIS, Ill., Jan. 6 (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton, a political veteran at the age of 41, announced tonight that he will seek a second term.

Stratton, a Republican, expects to lead a team of incumbents through the April 10 primary and into the November election. The GOP holds all of the eight major state elective offices.

Cops Get Handcuffs

OWATONNA, Minn., Jan. 6 (AP)—The Owatonna City Council has authorized purchase of a set of handcuffs for each of the 15 members of the police department after being informed the entire department shared a single set.

Naughton Heads Graduates' Club

The Rapplier Club, composed of members of the 1933 graduating class of LaSalle (Institute) High School, elected a new president at the 23rd annual meeting of the group this week.

Marcus A. Naughton was elected to the post, succeeding Paul G. Stakem.

A new prize which the club unofficially adopted last year, was voted to become an annual award. The award will be restricted to members of the 1933 class and will go to the one voted as "Man of the Year."

James B. Reinhart was selected as this year's winner.

The Rapplier Club has set in motion plans for the silver anniversary reunion, scheduled early in January 1958.

Norris Backs Guild Ban, Will Continue Fights In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS)—Jim Norris, president of the powerful International Boxing Club, told New York State Athletic Commission Chairman Julius Helfand today that he will back Helfand's ban of the Managers' Guild and at the same time continue boxing in the state.

The crusading commissioner weeks earlier banned membership in the Guild, effective Jan. 15, for its alleged connection with unsavory underworld characters. Last night the New York Boxing Guild voted unanimously to defy Helfand's order and make the state a ghost state for boxing if necessary.

Norris lunched with commissioner Helfand today and later told a news conference that the IBC "will continue to present boxing shows in New York and will continue to comply with the laws of the state and the regulations of the State Athletic Commission."

The IBC, which promotes Friday night fights (NBC) out of Madison Square Garden, apparently will continue to stage boxing shows in New York with the help of non-guild member managers although Norris warned that he "will take drastic measures if necessary." Norris did not detail what these would be.

Norris told newsmen his first Friday night bout after the Guild ban deadline would come Jan. 20 from Syracuse, Norman Rothschild co-promoting, and will pair middleweights Gene Fullmer of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Gil Turner of Philadelphia.

The multi-millionaire IBC head said he plans his next Garden match for Feb. 3 when the 17-day long ice show vacates.

Yule Decorations Come Down Monday

Tomorrow will be the last day to get a picture of the city's Christmas decorations on Emmanuel Episcopal Church grounds, Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, member of the City Park Board, reported yesterday.

She said the decorations have been moved closer together at the request of many photographers, who were anxious to get shots of the Yule display.

Decorations in other park areas have already been taken down, and will be removed from the site of old Fort Cumberland on Monday.

Court Bailiff Hurt In Fall From Chair

Andrew Y. Wilson, 732 Maryland Avenue, bailiff at Allegany County Circuit Court, injured his head yesterday afternoon in a fall from a chair on the second floor of the Court House.

Wilson, who was on duty while the January term of the Grand Jury is in session, leaned back in his chair and in doing so, the chair slipped out from under him. He struck his head on a radiator and was taken to a physician for treatment by Edward R. Willison.

Local Man Jailed In Default Of Fine

Clark Allen Morgan, 41, of 216 Union Street, was sentenced to serve 40 days in County Jail yesterday in default of fines totaling $112.90.

He was found guilty by Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason on two state motor vehicle charges placed by city police Wednesday.

Grace Is First Star To Marry Reigning Royalty

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6 (AP)—Hollywood, rifling through its romance records, ascertained today that Grace Kelly will be the first movie star to marry into a reigning royal family.

Other stars have married French counts, Russian princes and titled Englishmen. But the Philadelphian, in marrying Prince Rainier III of Monaco, is the first to join a family of active royalty.

Rita Hayworth's former husband, Prince Aly Khan, is the son of a Moslem religious potentate.

Gloria Swanson became a marquise 30 years ago when she married Henrip the Marquis de la Falaise et de la Coudray. The marriage broke up, and the marquise title passed on to Constance Bennett when the Frenchman became the third of her five husbands.

Fred Astaire's sister Adele formerly was Lady Cavendish. Virginia Cherrill was the Countess of Jersey.

Blonde Mae Murray, whose "beestung" lips were a movie trade mark of the roaring 20s, married Prince David Mdivani in 1926. They were divorced in 1933. Pola Negri, another star of the era, was married for a few years, starting in 1932, to David's brother, Prince Serge Mdivani.

Both princes were of the Georgian Republic in Russia prior to the 1917 revolution.

Another Bridge Class May Be Formed Here

Bridge classes sponsored by the City Recreation Department resumed Wednesday night after a holiday break.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant to the director, said students have completed eight of 10 lessons in the course and that the current class will end January 25.

Some of the beginners, she said, have progressed enough to play at some of the regular sessions of the Western Maryland Bridge Club.

Mrs. Hogan said a number of persons have indicated interest in bridge lessons and that another class may be formed in about a month if there are enough applicants.

Governor Vetoed

Allegany County. The Attorney General has advised as follows:

"'As written, the title indicates the bill concerns the County Tax Collector. However, the act itself in repealing a number of other sections repeals sections not only prescribing duties for collectors, but also provisions concerning dates of levies, discounts on taxes, mailing of tax bills, validation of tax sales made between 1943 and 1950, and many others.'"

Governor McKeldin further noted that the Attorney General had found the bill faulty in title as well as in much of its content. He wrote, "In addition to the basic purpose of the bill, to change the Tax Collectors from a fee basis to a salary basis could not constitutionally be effective during the term of office of the present Collectors."

The Attorney General points out that due to the faults found in the measure, "the act endangers the collection of taxes in Allegany County, casts doubt on previous tax sales and otherwise casts a cloud on the financial administration of the County."

Governor McKeldin also observed that "the sponsors of the bill, as well as local authorities, have requested its veto to avoid any possible danger of affecting local tax revenues."

A number of other bills of a state-wide nature had some interest and some bearing upon Allegany County. However, the two discussed here were the only local measures the governor found it necessary to veto.

While all vetoed measures from the previous session must be the first order of business at the next called or regular General Assembly, it appears doubtful if these two local bills will cause any great argument.

Legislators indicate that at this late date, it appears sponsors of both these measures are content to let the questions stand as they are, until the 1957 long term of the General Assembly, when local bills can be presented. At the short term this year, local measures, unless they are to cover emergencies, cannot be introduced.

NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 127 of the Charter of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, 1950 Edition, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and City Council of Cumbeland, did, in regular session Monday, December 19, 1955, approve the Report of Commissioners for the closing of the southerly 123.3 feet of an unnamed 16 foot alley which connects Elizabeth and Elder Streets in Walsh Addition to South Cumberland and which said alley runs parallel with and 120 feet distant from the easterly side of Lexington Avenue. Said Commissioners were appointed by virtue of Ordinance No. 2005 for the purpose of assessing any damages or benefits incurred by or accruing to any owners of property affected by the closing of said alley. After meeting on premises and hearing those persons who would be affected by the closing of said portion of said alley, the commissioners present the following:

"It is the unanimous opinion of the undersigned, that as a result of the closing of the Southerly 123.3 feet of an unnamed sixteen foot alley which connects Elizabeth and Elder Streets in Walsh Addition to South Cumberland, that no damages have been sustained and no benefits have accrued to adjacent or adjoining property owners and it is our decision that no benefits are to be levied and no damages should be assessed. However, adequate drainage should be provided through the closed portion of the alley in order to assure continued proper drainage of the immediate area.

We further direct that the Allegany Building and Land Corporation should pay all costs attendant to the closing of the said Southerly 123.3 feet of the unnamed sixteen foot alley, which proceedings were instituted at the request of said Corporation.

Any person, persons, firm or corporation feeling aggrieved by the decision of the commissioners may appeal therefrom within thirty (30) days after December 19, 1955, by filing written notice of such appeal with the City Clerk of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, who will transmit same to the Circuit Court for Allegany County to be docketed for jury trial.

No Cutback Seen At Fairchild Plant

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Air Force was reported today to have dropped plans for a production cut at the Hagerstown, Md., plant of the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp.

Sen. Butler (R-Md) said he was informed that the Air Force had called off plans which Butler said would have resulted in the discharge of between 1,500 and 1,800 skilled workers.

The Air Force concluded after study, Butler said, that the proposed program would have resulted in "substantial additional cost."

"I am indeed gratified," Butler said, "that at my instigation the Air Force reversed itself on this program which would have resulted in the discharge of between 1,500 and 1,800 skilled workers and involving wages of two million dollars."

Gunman Gets 7-Year Term

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6 (AP)—Joseph Sampson, New York gunman imported to Baltimore for a 1954 robbery planned by Martin J. Yamin, today was sentenced to seven years in the House of Correction.

Judge John T. Tucker said he gave special consideration to Sampson's key position as a witness in the Brooklyn, N. Y., conviction of Yamin for a gang-style slaying. The judge said he also took into consideration's Sampson's aid in convicting John DiTommaso, another confederate with Yamin in the attempt to rob a Baltimore couple on Sept. 1, 1954.

A fourth party to the planned robbery here, Joseph Aronowitz, was murdered in New York last winter after boasting he planned to implicate Yamin in the holdup attempt. Yamin, a former substitute magistrate in Baltimore pleaded guilty to second degree murder as the hirer of Aronowitz's killer.

Sampson's sentencing cleaned up the involved case. DiTomasso was previously sentenced to 10 years in prison. Yamin is doing 20 years to life for the Aronowitz slaying and August Robles, the actual trigger man of Aronowitz, was shot down by New York police shortly after the slaying.

New York authorities appeared here earlier in the week to attest to Sampson's importance in the Yamin conviction.

As further consideration for his help in cleaning up the Baltimore robbery case, Judge Tucker said he was going to date the start of Sampson's sentence "back a little further than I would normally. I think the defendant is entitled to great liberality on the part of the court."

He dated the sentence back to Dec. 18, 1954—the date Sampson was charged with attempted robbery—and made it exclusive of 26 days Sampson was free on bail prior to his trial last February.

Two Guards Foil Attempted Holdup

The attempted robbery occurred outside the Nemo corset factory, as the two guards were delivering a $10,000 payroll.

Patient Gunman Robs 10 People In 5-Hour Theft

DETROIT, Jan. 6 (AP)—A patient gunman robbed and bound 10 victims in a five-hour marathon robbery today in a basement washroom of the brand new Michigan Life Insurance Co. building in suburban Royal Oak.

The gunman's first victim was George Bundshuh, a boiler operator in the building. Bundshuh was held up in a basement corridor about 8:30 a.m., forced into the washroom and bound with tape.

Then the gunman, armed with a .38 pistol, propped Burdshuh against a wall and proceeded liesurely to follow the same routine with nine other men who innocently wandered into the washroom between 8:30 and 1:30 p.m.

At 1:30 p.m., the gunman released Bundshuh and forced him to walk in front of him out of the building which fronts Woodward Ave., one of metropolitan Detroit's most heavily travelled thoroughfares.

Police said the loot totaled about $450. They said the vicims reported their captor was polite and never complained, although one of the men didn't have a cent on him and only one of the 10 had more than $18.

Biggest loser was Angus Smith, of Royal Oak, an inspector for an architectural firm, who was carrying $400 in cash. The other nine were employes of the life insurance company.

Bundshuh said when the gunman reached the street he ordered him to walk north and "don't turn around." He said he walked half a block before turning back and calling the police.

Norris Backs Guild Ban, Will Continue Fights In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (INS)—Jim Norris, president of the powerful International Boxing Club, told New York State Athletic Commission Chairman Julius Helfand today that he will back Helfand's ban of the Managers' Guild and at the same time continue boxing in the state.

The crusading commissioner weeks earlier banned membership in the Guild, effective Jan. 15, for its alleged connection with unsavory underworld characters. Last night the New York Boxing Guild voted unanimously to defy Helfand's order and make the state a ghost state for boxing if necessary.

Norris lunched with commissioner Helfand today and later told a news conference that the IBC "will continue to present boxing shows in New York and will continue to comply with the laws of the state and the regulations of the State Athletic Commission."

The IBC, which promotes Friday night fights (NBC) out of Madison Square Garden, apparently will continue to stage boxing shows in New York with the help of non-guild member managers although Norris warned that he "will take drastic measures if necessary." Norris did not detail what these would be.

Norris told newsmen his first Friday night bout after the Guild ban deadline would come Jan. 20 from Syracuse, Norman Rothschild co-promoting, and will pair middleweights Gene Fullmer of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Gil Turner of Philadelphia.

The multi-millionaire IBC head said he plans his next Garden match for Feb. 3 when the 17-day long ice show vacates.

Decorations in other park areas have already been taken down, and will be removed from the site of old Fort Cumberland on Monday.

Grace Is First Star To Marry Reigning Royalty

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6 (AP)—Hollywood, rifling through its romance records, ascertained today that Grace Kelly will be the first movie star to marry into a reigning royal family.

Other stars have married French counts, Russian princes and titled Englishmen. But the Philadelphian, in marrying Prince Rainier III of Monaco, is the first to join a family of active royalty.

Rita Hayworth's former husband, Prince Aly Khan, is the son of a Moslem religious potentate.

Gloria Swanson became a marquise 30 years ago when she married Henrip the Marquis de la Falaise et de la Coudray. The marriage broke up, and the marquise title passed on to Constance Bennett when the Frenchman became the third of her five husbands.

Fred Astaire's sister Adele formerly was Lady Cavendish. Virginia Cherrill was the Countess of Jersey.

Blonde Mae Murray, whose "beestung" lips were a movie trade mark of the roaring 20s, married Prince David Mdivani in 1926. They were divorced in 1933. Pola Negri, another star of the era, was married for a few years, starting in 1932, to David's brother, Prince Serge Mdivani.

Both princes were of the Georgian Republic in Russia prior to the 1917 revolution.

Another Bridge Class May Be Formed Here

Bridge classes sponsored by the City Recreation Department resumed Wednesday night after a holiday break.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant to the director, said students have completed eight of 10 lessons in the course and that the current class will end January 25.

Some of the beginners, she said, have progressed enough to play at some of the regular sessions of the Western Maryland Bridge Club.

Mrs. Hogan said a number of persons have indicated interest in bridge lessons and that another class may be formed in about a month if there are enough applicants.

Governor Vetoed

Allegany County. The Attorney General has advised as follows:

"'As written, the title indicates the bill concerns the County Tax Collector. However, the act itself in repealing a number of other sections repeals sections not only prescribing duties for collectors, but also provisions concerning dates of levies, discounts on taxes, mailing of tax bills, validation of tax sales made between 1943 and 1950, and many others.'"

Governor McKeldin further noted that the Attorney General had found the bill faulty in title as well as in much of its content. He wrote, "In addition to the basic purpose of the bill, to change the Tax Collectors from a fee basis to a salary basis could not constitutionally be effective during the term of office of the present Collectors."

The Attorney General points out that due to the faults found in the measure, "the act endangers the collection of taxes in Allegany County, casts doubt on previous tax sales and otherwise casts a cloud on the financial administration of the County."

Governor McKeldin also observed that "the sponsors of the bill, as well as local authorities, have requested its veto to avoid any possible danger of affecting local tax revenues."

A number of other bills of a state-wide nature had some interest and some bearing upon Allegany County. However, the two discussed here were the only local measures the governor found it necessary to veto.

While all vetoed measures from the previous session must be the first order of business at the next called or regular General Assembly, it appears doubtful if these two local bills will cause any great argument.

Legislators indicate that at this late date, it appears sponsors of both these measures are content to let the questions stand as they are, until the 1957 long term of the General Assembly, when local bills can be presented. At the short term this year, local measures, unless they are to cover emergencies, cannot be introduced.

Two Indicted In Morals Case At County Jail

Assault Teen-Agers, Grand Jury Says

Two young local men, originally held as burglary suspects, also have been indicted by the Allegany County Circuit Court grand jury on three additional charges of assaulting three teen-age inmates of the County Jail with intent to commit sodomy.

Named in four indictments placed on the open docket in Circuit Court yesterday were Donald Joseph Cavey, 22, and Richard Lee Spencer, 21.

Another indictment docketed yesterday charges James Allen, 72-year-old Klondike man, with the murder November 1 of a neighbor, Donald MacDougal Winter, 35.

Cavey and Spencer were first committed to the County Jail November 22 in default of $2,000 bonds on charges of breaking into the dwelling of Gladys Glaze, Roberts Street, November 12.

Went To Florida

They were accused of stealing a .25-caliber automatic pistol and clip, a $50 ring, a $3 flashlight and $71 in money, $63 in dimes and $8 in pennies.

Cavey and Spencer said in a statement to city police that they left Cumberland following the crime, traveled by bus to Baltimore and then to Florida. They were apprehended early November 23 by city police at the Cavey home.

The morals charges accuse them of assaulting two of the boys, one 18 and the other 16, on December 13, and the other 18-year-old boy December 14.

A spokesman for Sheriff Edward R. Muir said that after the morals complaint was lodged against Cavey and Spencer, the two were denied freedom from their cells and the younger boys were transferred to the quarters generally reserved for women prisoners, but then unoccupied.

Prisoners Testify

The boys, who themselves were sentenced to varying terms in the Maryland Reformatory for Males December 28 on burglary and larceny charges, were brought back to Cumberland Wednesday to testify before the grand jury.

Allen has been confined in County Jail since the day he fatally wounded Winter in what police described as a neighborhood argument over Winter's children. Winter died in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, about three hours after Allen reportedly fired at him from his porch with a 12-gauge double-barreled shotgun.

The Klondike man was taken to Baltimore December 28 for psychiatric examination by Dr. Mannfred S. Guttmacher, criminal psychologist for the Baltimore Supreme Court.

Two Hurt In Car Crash At Petersburg

Two area men were admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., with injuries sustained in an auto crash Thursday night in Petersburg, W. Va.

Reported in fair condition last night at the hospital was Curtis Wratchford, 20, Petersburg, a passenger in the car driven by Freeman See, 24, Moorefield.

Wratchford suffered lacerations of the face and right hand and a fractured left ankle. See, who is expected to be discharged from the hospital today, sustained a laceration of the face.

The accident, according to authorities, occurred about 10 p. m. Thursday in Petersburg as the car apparently got out of See's control, careened across the street, tore out about eight feet of hedge at the home of Charles Friddle, and came to a stop as it hit a utility pole.

The car was demolished, according to authorities. Investigating with Petersburg City Police Officer Robert Day are Cpl. D. E. Adams and Trooper John Leeson of the West Virginia State Police.

Governor Vetoed Only Two Local Measures Last Year

(This is the second of a series of articles on bills passed at the last session of the General Assembly and vetoed by Governor McKeldin. All must come up when the Assembly next meets. The articles were prepared by F. Allan Weatherholt of the staff of The Cumberland News).

Among the 60 measures vetoed by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin during and after the last session of the Maryland General Assembly, there were only two which were purely Allegany County bills.

The Assembly passed and the governor signed into law some 32 new bills or amendments, which affected the laws of Allegany County, but most of these were of a more or less minor nature.

The two vetoed bills were questions which had probably resulted from political discussions and political differences in some quarters. One involved appointments of clerks in Trial Magistrates Court here and the other involved the appointment of a county tax collector on a salary basis instead of the long-time fee system.

SB No. 528, entitled Trial Magistrates, Cumberland, provided that the County Commissioners would provide each trial magistrate in Cumberland with a clerical assistant. The appointments were to be made by each magistrate effective from May 1955 to May 1959, when such appointments would revert to the County Commissioners.

The governor noted in his veto message that under terms of existing law in Allegany County, the County Commissioners are required to appoint and pay for such clerical assistants as are deemed reasonable and necessary.

"This practice," he wrote, "is a continuation of an established practice originally initiated in somewhat different form in 1936, through the bipartisan efforts of Allegany County citizens interested in maintaining the standards of the Magistrates Courts in the County."

Gov. McKeldin said, "In practice the system has worked well until the present time."

Since the bill proposes for reverting to an old system until 1956 when it would revert back to the County Commissioners in 1959, the governor said he could see no reason to disrupt or overturn the exisiting system for a limited period of time.

Governor McKeldin further stated that this problem or proposal is entirely a local matter and should be handled under existing legislation.

Perhaps of interest to many more people than the clerical argument in Trial Magistrates Court was the governor's veto of Senate Bill No. 583, titled Allegany County Tax Collector.

It is recalled that this bill grew out of attacks made during recent political campaigns about the county's continuing system of paying tax collectors on a fee basis, instead of a salary. It was pointed out by proponents that the City of Cumberland abandoned the fee system many years ago, had hired a salaried tax collector and found that plan much more economical and satisfactory.

Senate Bill No. 583 was vetoed by Governor McKeldin, not because he favored the fee system of collecting taxes, but for an entirely different reason.

He wrote, "I have today (April 28, 1955) vetoed Senate Bill No. 583, relating to Tax Collectors in

Dimes Drive Crutches On Sale Today

This is "Blue Crutch Day" in Cumberland.

The feature of the current March of Dimes drive will be sponsored by Cumberland Lodge 271, LOO Moose, and the members will be in charge of distributing the small plastic crutches.

Russell Minnicks, lodge governor, said yesterday that the crutches, a symbol of this week's campaign, will be distributed in the vicinity of Baltimore and Centre streets between 11 a. m. and 4 p. m.

Volunteers will have containers to receive donations from persons accepting the crutches, as part of the fund raising project of Moose lodges across the nation.

Elementary Band Will Rehearse

The second rehearsal of the Cumberland area elementary band will be held at West Side School auditorium on Paca Street today from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., W. Valgene Routch, Allegany County Board of Education music supervisor, announced.

The band is composed of advanced instrumental students from the fifth and sixth grades and eligible players from junior high school musical groups.

The organization will rehearse the first Saturday of every month until March. Rehearsals will be held thereafter twice each month. The band concert will be presented sometime in May.

At the first rehearsal of the group, 73 boys and girls were in attendance and Harry Malcolm, director of the band, hopes there will be at least 85 students at today's rehearsal. Other students who are interested in joining the group are urged to contact Malcolm.

Equity Suits Filed

A number of equity suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Ellen Clark vs. John Clark, Goldie Ellen Long vs. Jack Morgan Long, Martin L. Higgs vs. Dolores L. Higgs, and Frederick Hillegas, by his stepfather and next friend, vs. Regina Hillegas.

Woman, 69, Is Hit By Car On Baltimore St.

A local woman, who was struck by an auto on Baltimore Street yesterday afternoon, was reported in "fair" condition last night by attaches of Sacred Heart Hospital.

She is Mrs. Novella Gray, 69, of 322 Emily Street. Mrs. Gray was reported to have been complaining of pain in her chest, and suffered injuries in her left shoulder and right leg.

X-rays will be taken to determined the extent of her injuries.

City Police, who investigated the accident which occurred about 2:07 p. m. yesterday, said the woman was struck by a car driven by David M. Warren, 70, of Warrenton, Va.

Mrs. Gray was reported to have walked out onto Baltimore Street into the path of the car as it was traveling west between Centre and George streets.

The driver told Police Officer W. E. Valentine that he did not see Mrs. Gray until he heard the impact.

The victim said she was at fault crossing between the two intersections. She was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Bridge Work Is Under Way

Crews are demolishing the 40-year-old Market Street Bridge over Wills Creek and find it tough going.

The reinforced concrete bridge was built in 1915 by the Vang Construction Company and is to be replaced with a single arch bridge similar to the new Valley Street Bridge.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said work accomplished this week includes the start on the demolition and some channel work.

The channel beneath the span is being deepened and narrowed so crews can prepare forms for the abutments upon which the steel-girder span will rest.

The new bridge will also have a profile similar to the Valley Street span. The center of the new span will be about six feet higher than the present bridge in order to provide additional clearance for flood waters.

Kenney Will Attend State CD Meeting

Francis A. Kenney, deputy director of Civil Defense in Allegany County for emergency welfare services, will attend a state-wide planning meeting in College Park January 18 on feeding and housing displaced persons.

Because of this county's comparatively remote location, Civil Defense planners are considering some type of long range feeding and housing program for persons who might have to be evacuated from such nearby strategic cities as Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh.

On the feeding problems, Kenney and William G. Barger, county Civil Defense director, met yesterday with Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster and Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, dietician and supervisor of cafeterias in the county public schools.

Kiwanis To Sponsor Third Skating Party

A third skating party for some 45 boys and girls who attended the Sunshine Camp last summer will be conducted this afternoon at the State Armory by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club.

Skating will last from 1:30 until 4:15 p. m. Kiwanians who are responsible for getting the youngsters to the armory include Rev. Howard M. Amoss, James W. Bishop, Lawrence W. Brown, John A. Cupler, Albert A. Doub, William J. Edwards, Thomas B. Finan, Lloyd N. Fox, C. Edward George, Charles F Helmrich and Richard W. Kirsch.

Parking Lot Talks Are Under Way

A Chamber of Commerce subcommittee yesterday conferred with city officials to explore the possibilities of providing additional off-street parking in the city.

The delegation was headed by Robert Little Ebert, chairman of the off-street parking subcommittee of the Chamber's Civic Affairs Committee.

Other members are Robert E. Barnard, Karl D. Bachman, Thomas B. Finan and Frank Martin, Edward Dove serves as an advisor to the subcommittee.

Edward L. Ewald, chairman of the Civic Affairs Committee, sat in on the meeting with Mayor Roy W. Eves and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum.

Ebert said yesterday afternoon's meeting was an exploratory one and that the plans were made to meet again on Tuesday, January 17, at 3 p. m. with city officials in the Mayor's Office.

The committee wants to explore the possibilities of providing additional space for off-street parking and to bring all information on the subject up to date.

Ebert said the committee feels there is a definite need for more parking facilities, due to the increase in the number of vehicles.

Members said they want the streets to be used for moving traffic, and not as parking spaces.

Both Drivers Found Guilty

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason yesterday imposed $10 fines on the drivers of a car and a garbage truck which collided on Pennsylvania Avenue here December 31.

Fined were Clyde H. Settle, 86 Linden Street, Frostburg, driver of the car, and Paul D. Sites, Route 2, operator of the garbage truck.

He said the accident occurred as the garbage truck stopped on the left side of the street, abreast of cars parked on both sides of the street.

The garbage truck, he said, is a vehicle which has no special rights, should not have been parked on the left side of the two-way street, and was showing only parking lights.

The magistrate said he found Settle guilty, taking the view he should have had his car under control—it skidded 35 feet uphill, the magistrate said—and with his lights on he should have seen the parked truck.

Injured In Fall

Mrs. Edna Lueck, 50, of 22 Massachusetts Avenue, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital early yesterday evening with a leg injury sustained when she fell down a flight of steps at her home. X-rays will be taken.

Foresters' School Planned Next Week In Garrett Co.

Assistant district foresters and forest superintendents will attend classes next week during a three-day session which is being planned at Herrington Manor in Garrett County.

The school classes will be conducted January 10, 11 and 12 by H. C. Buckingham, state forester; A. R. Bond, assistant state forester, and William H. Johnson, district forester for Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties.

The purpose of the school, according to Johnson, is to improve further existing forest stands through proper thinning processes.

The resulting operations offer employment to local timber cutters as well as the swelling of the income to the state and counties from state-owned forest lands.

Johnson pointed out that for a 12-month period ending September 30, 1955, 15 per cent of the total income from state forests of Garrett County provided that county with $7,000.

Allegany County realized an income of over $1,500 during the same period, Johnson added. This income is paid to counties in lieu of land taxes which are not paid by the state.

He said that the development of forests toward adequate growing stock will increase each year. The monetary benefits are only a small part of the benefits of the state-controlled forest land, which includes recreation for everyone, especially hunters and fishermen.

Resources Group Urges Better Use Of Water

W.Va. Conferees Meet In Romney

Recommendations for legislative changes to provide for better use of all watersheds in West Virginia were made yesterday during a Natural Resources Appraisal Conference for the Eastern Panhandle and Potomac Valley of West Virginia in Romney.

About 40 men, representing eight different counties, spent the day evaluating renewal natural resources programs in West Virginia.

The conferees told State Senator Dayton R. Stemple of Philippi that they favor a number of changes in the generally archaic laws governing water rights and water uses to provide for a more efficient use of the state's water supply.

Heads Subcommittee

Senator Stemple is chairman of an interim subcommittee on natural resources. He presided at the afternoon sessions of the conference. He was accompanied to Romney by Marlin Luger, a professor in the College of Law of West Virginia University. Lugar will assist Stemple in drafting any legislation agreed upon.

The Romney meeting was one of four or five being conducted at different points in the state.

During the luncheon meeting yesterday at the New Century Hotel R. L. Baker of Fabius, Hardy County, discussed the accomplishments of the Potomac Valley Soil Conservation District since its organization about 1940. He presented a number of statistics to show the progress in soil conservation that has been made.

Recreation Cited

John C. Ailes of Romney discussed the relationship between natural resources and recreation in the course of a 10-minute talk during the afternoon session. He observed that various soil and water conservation measures also benefit the recreation picture because they help provide better and more extensive recreation facilities.

He also touched on the economic advantages of improved recreation facilities which encourage more tourists to visit the area with their flow of new money into a community.

Other speakers in the afternoon session were George R. Heidrich, Charles Town, chairman of the Eastern Panhandle Soil Conservation District; Clyde Bonar of Burlington, president of the West Virginia Farm Bureau; Mayor John C. Freeland of Keyser; J. Leslie Cain of Berkeley Springs, and James L. Creasy, Martinsburg, superintendent of Berkeley County schools.

State Senator Ralph J. Bean of Moorefield spoke at the morning session. Ralph Haines of Romney presided at the luncheon.

Teachers Group Proposes Action On Pension Plan

Legislative proposals which would improve the pensions for Allegany County teachers will be discussed at the meeting of the Allegany County Teachers Association at 7:30 p. m. January 12 at Allegany High School.

John D. Kelly, association president, has urged in a form letter to all members that at least 80 per cent of the membership attend the next meeting.

The association's legislative chairman would propose the introduction of a bill at the next session of the General Assembly calling for the appropriation of about $200,000 to correct annuity discrepancies for all state employes.

Kelly's letter notes that $500,000 already has been added to the Social Security bill to include Baltimore City teachers, whose retirement system already has been corrected.

The County association feels that the state should appropriate $250,000 so that all teachers and state employes' retirement pay would equal one-seventieth of their average annual compensation multiplied by the total number of years of service.

Forest Fire Danger Is Increasing

Due to the lack of rainfall during recent weeks, says William H. Johnson, district forester, there is considerable forest fire danger.

Johnson pointed out that with continued droughts and high winds, the danger could become critical. The cooperation of the public is asked by the State Department of Forests and Parks, Johnson added.

However, time restrictions as to the burning of debris are not enforced until March 1. If the public has debris to burr on private property at this time, Johnson said, the following precautionary measures should be taken:

Plow or construct a fire line at least 10 feet wide around the area to be burned.

Have sufficient help and adequate tools on hand to prevent fire from escaping.

Keep a watchman at the burning operation until the last spark is out.

Although last year's final statistics are not yet available the number of fires and acreage burned were among the smallest in the history of the department.

This, Johnson added, was realized by the cooperation and vigilance of residents of the area who were burning over their land.

Surplus Foods Distribution Begins Monday

Distribution of surplus food for January will begin Monday of next week at 9 a. m. in Westernport, according to Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, in charge.

On Tuesday, distribution will be made in Barton; Wednesday at Lonaconing; Thursday at Midland and Friday at Frostburg.

The following week, the distribution will begin at Clarysville on Monday; Mt. Savage on Tuesday; Cresaptown, Wednesday, and Cumberland on Thursday and Friday. The time in each community begins at 9 a. m. and continues until noon except at Lonaconing and Frostburg, where closing hour is 1 p. m. and at Cumberland where distribution ends at 2 p. m. each day.

This month, surplus commodities include butter, cheese, dried milk, shortening, flour and corn meal.

Blood Donors Needed Here Next Week

The Allegany County Red Cross Chapter begins its fifth year of the local blood bank program next week, when the bloodmobile unit visits Cumberland on Monday and Frostburg on Tuesday.

The bloodmobile made its first visit here on January 21, 1952, and has been making regular monthly visits since that time.

Red Cross officials say that every effort to meet the quotas of 150 pints at each community must be made. More volunteers are needed, and many walk-ins are called for. During the past two months, Cumberland hospitals have drawn from the blood bank, more blood than has been donated here, and this quantity must be replaced to keep the project going for any emergency.

The bloodmobile will be at the Eagles Home from noon until 6 p. m. Monday and at the American Legion in Frostburg on Tuesday from noon until 6 p. m.

Grand Jury Will Return On Monday

The Allegany County Circuit Court grand jury will return for its second week of activity Monday at 9:15 a. m.

Yesterday afternoon when the grand jury reported it had not completed its deliberations after four days of work, Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris recessed the grand jury until 9:15 a. m. Monday.

Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of Allegany County public schools, is the grand jury foreman.

Kiwanis Changes Presidents

Farmers Facing Serious Problems

[By The Associated Press]

Dry to the core, Maryland waited Saturday for the number of continuous days without rain or snow to stretch into a new record.

The all-time record of 29 days without measurable precipitation was established between Oct. 11 and Nov. 8, 1874. That record was tied today and likely will be broken Sunday.

Most of Maryland hasn't had any measurable amount of moisture since Dec. 9.

George Brancato, meteorologist-in-charge of the U. S Weather Bureau at Friendship Airport near Baltimore, said Friday: "If we go one more day, we will have had the longest dry spell at any time in any year since we began keeping records.

He said no precipitation is expected at least until Monday.

Last month, Brancato said, was the driest December on record. Preliminary figures show that Maryland had an average of only .39 of an inch of precipitation—rain or snow. Normal for the month is 3.17 inches.

Last month's average, Brancato said, was exactly one-half of the previous lowest average of .78 of an inch in December 1896.

Garrett Had Some Rain

Only Garrett, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester recorded more than one inch of rainfall last month, the meteorologist said. One weather station near Frederick reported no measurable precipitation at all.

By measurable precipitation, the Weather Bureau means .01 of an inch or more. Anything less is called a "trace."

Brancato said the dry spell has been caused by the large amount of cold air which has held sway over Maryland during the last two months. Cold air is normally dry air, and there have been no major storms developing in this area.

Oddly, the long dry spell coming at the beginning of winter has gone almost unnoticed by the vast majority of Marylanders. With lawn and garden watering at a virtual halt, car washing at a minimum and even bathing and drinking at their lowest points of the year, consumption of water is seasonably low.

Despite the dry spell, there have been no water restrictions in the cities of the State. Baltimore officials recently reported the city's reservoirs nearly full.

Farmers Face Problems

But many rural folk have come fully to grips with the drought. And Brancato warned there is danger if the dry spell continues much longer.

"There has been no replenishing of the sub-soil moisture," he said. "It has been depleted to the point where it was during the drought of last summer. The water sources of the farmer are slowly going dry."

However, he said, a normal amount of rainfall through spring would alleviate the situation.

Particularly hard-pressed by the dry spell are farmers in west central Maryland. Rural residents have two drought worries, a lack of water for livestock and other needs, and a lack of protection for winter wheat.

Firemen Raise Money

One Washington County water hauler, Maurice Martin, has delivered 25,000 gallons of water on some recent days to farmers whose wells, cisterns or springs have dried up.

Volunteer firemen at Williamsport have paid off nearly one-fourth of the purchase price of a thousand-gallon tank wagon, bought for a water source in fighting rural fires, by using it to haul water to farms.

The alternating cold spells and thaws without a protective snow cover have caused farmers to fear that heaving of the earth would damage roots of winter wheat.

Mark Miller, Washington County agent, said the situation "isn't good," but he hasn't observed severe damage to the wheat crop so far. The county had only .13 of an inch of rain during December.

Cattle Meeting Planned Feb. 9

Allegany County beef and dairy cattle owners are being reminded by County Agent Joseph M. Steger that the annual dairy and livestock feeding program meeting will be conducted at 10 a.m. Thursday, February 9, at the LaVale Fire Hall.

Details are being completed on the program which calls for a number of excellent speakers to be here. Steger is writing to county farmers now so that they will make plans to come to the LaVale Fire Hall February 9.

Such meetings have been conducted here by the State Extension Service each winter for at least 10 years.

Two Indicted In Morals Case At County Jail

Assault Teen-Agers, Grand Jury Says

Two young local men, originally held as burglary suspects, also have been indicted by the Allegany County Circuit Court grand jury on three additional charges of assaulting three teen-age inmates of the County Jail with intent to commit sodomy.

Named in four indictments placed on the open docket in Circuit Court yesterday were Donald Joseph Cavey, 22, and Richard Lee Spencer, 21.

Another indictment docketed yesterday charges James Allen, 72-year-old Klondike man, with the murder November 1 of a neighbor, Donald MacDougal Winter, 35.

Cavey and Spencer were first committed to the County Jail November 22 in default of $2,000 bonds on charges of breaking into the dwelling of Gladys Glaze, Roberts Street, November 12.

Went To Florida

They were accused of stealing a .25-caliber automatic pistol and clip, a $50 ring, a $3 flashlight and $71 in money, $63 in dimes and $8 in pennies.

Cavey and Spencer said in a statement to city police that they left Cumberland following the crime, traveled by bus to Baltimore and then to Florida. They were apprehended early November 23 by city police at the Cavey home.

The morals charges accuse them of assaulting two of the boys, one 18 and the other 16, on December 13, and the other 18-year-old boy December 14.

A spokesman for Sheriff Edward R. Muir said that after the morals complaint was lodged against Cavey and Spencer, the two were denied freedom from their cells and the younger boys were transferred to the quarters generally reserved for women prisoners, but then unoccupied.

Prisoners Testify

The boys, who themselves were sentenced to varying terms in the Maryland Reformatory for Males December 28 on burglary and larceny charges, were brought back to Cumberland Wednesday to testify before the grand jury.

Allen has been confined in County Jail since the day he fatally wounded Winter in what police described as a neighborhood argument over Winter's children. Winter died in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, about three hours after Allen reportedly fired at him from his porch with a 12-gauge double-barreled shotgun.

The Klondike man was taken to Baltimore December 28 for psychiatric examination by Dr. Mannfred S. Guttmacher, criminal psychologist for the Baltimore Supreme Court.

Two Hurt In Car Crash At Petersburg

Two area men were admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., with injuries sustained in an auto crash Thursday night in Petersburg, W. Va.

Reported in fair condition last night at the hospital was Curtis Wratchford, 20, Petersburg, a passenger in the car driven by Freeman See, 24, Moorefield.

Wratchford suffered lacerations of the face and right hand and a fractured left ankle. See, who is expected to be discharged from the hospital today, sustained a laceration of the face.

The accident, according to authorities, occurred about 10 p. m. Thursday in Petersburg as the car apparently got out of See's control, careened across the street, tore out about eight feet of hedge at the home of Charles Friddle, and came to a stop as it hit a utility pole.

The car was demolished, according to authorities. Investigating with Petersburg City Police Officer Robert Day are Cpl. D. E. Adams and Trooper John Leeson of the West Virginia State Police.

Governor Vetoed Only Two Local Measures Last Year

(This is the second of a series of articles on bills passed at the last session of the General Assembly and vetoed by Governor McKeldin. All must come up when the Assembly next meets. The articles were prepared by F. Allan Weatherholt of the staff of The Cumberland News).

Among the 60 measures vetoed by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin during and after the last session of the Maryland General Assembly, there were only two which were purely Allegany County bills.

The Assembly passed and the governor signed into law some 32 new bills or amendments, which affected the laws of Allegany County, but most of these were of a more or less minor nature.

The two vetoed bills were questions which had probably resulted from political discussions and political differences in some quarters. One involved appointments of clerks in Trial Magistrates Court here and the other involved the appointment of a county tax collector on a salary basis instead of the long-time fee system.

SB No. 528, entitled Trial Magistrates, Cumberland, provided that the County Commissioners would provide each trial magistrate in Cumberland with a clerical assistant. The appointments were to be made by each magistrate effective from May 1955 to May 1959, when such appointments would revert to the County Commissioners.

The governor noted in his veto message that under terms of existing law in Allegany County, the County Commissioners are required to appoint and pay for such clerical assistants as are deemed reasonable and necessary.

"This practice," he wrote, "is a continuation of an established practice originally initiated in somewhat different form in 1936, through the bipartisan efforts of Allegany County citizens interested in maintaining the standards of the Magistrates Courts in the County."

Gov. McKeldin said, "In practice the system has worked well until the present time."

Since the bill proposes for reverting to an old system until 1956 when it would revert back to the County Commissioners in 1959, the governor said he could see no reason to disrupt or overturn the exisiting system for a limited period of time.

Governor McKeldin further stated that this problem or proposal is entirely a local matter and should be handled under existing legislation.

Perhaps of interest to many more people than the clerical argument in Trial Magistrates Court was the governor's veto of Senate Bill No. 583, titled Allegany County Tax Collector.

It is recalled that this bill grew out of attacks made during recent political campaigns about the county's continuing system of paying tax collectors on a fee basis, instead of a salary. It was pointed out by proponents that the City of Cumberland abandoned the fee system many years ago, had hired a salaried tax collector and found that plan much more economical and satisfactory.

Foresters' School Planned Next Week In Garrett Co.

The school classes will be conducted January 10, 11 and 12 by H. C. Buckingham, state forester; A. R. Bond, assistant state forester, and William H. Johnson, district forester for Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties.

Parking Lot Talks Are Under Way

A Chamber of Commerce subcommittee yesterday conferred with city officials to explore the possibilities of providing additional off-street parking in the city.

The delegation was headed by Robert Little Ebert, chairman of the off-street parking subcommittee of the Chamber's Civic Affairs Committee.

Other members are Robert E. Barnard, Karl D. Bachman, Thomas B. Finan and Frank Martin. Edward Dove serves as an advisor to the subcommittee.

Edward L. Ewald, chairman of the Civic Affairs Committee, sat in on the meeting with Mayor Roy W. Eves and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum.

Ebert said yesterday afternoon's meeting was an exploratory one and that the plans were made to meet again on Tuesday, January 17, at 3 p. m. with city officials in the Mayor's Office.

The committee wants to explore the possibilities of providing additional space for off-street parking and to bring all information on the subject up to date.

Ebert said the committee feels there is a definite need for more parking facilities, due to the increase in the number of vehicles.

Members said they want the streets to be used for moving traffic, and not as parking spaces.

Both Drivers Found Guilty

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason yesterday imposed $10 fines on the drivers of a car and a garbage truck which collided on Pennsylvania Avenue here December 31.

Fined were Clyde H. Settle, 86 Linden Street, Frostburg, driver of the car, and Paul D. Sites, Route 2, operator of the garbage truck.

He said the accident occurred as the garbage truck stopped on the left side of the street, abreast of cars parked on both sides of the street.

The garbage truck, he said, is a vehicle which has no special rights, should not have been parked on the left side of the two-way street, and was showing only parking lights.

The magistrate said he found Settle guilty, taking the view he should have had his car under control—it skidded 35 feet uphill, the magistrate said—and with his lights on he should have seen the parked truck.

Injured In Fall

Mrs. Edna Lueck, 50, of 22 Massachusetts Avenue, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital early yesterday evening with a leg injury sustained when she fell down a flight of steps at her home. X-rays will be taken.

Resources Group Urges Better Use Of Water

W.Va. Conferees Meet In Romney

Recommendations for legislative changes to provide for better use of all watersheds in West Virginia were made yesterday during a Natural Resources Appraisal Conference for the Eastern Panhandle and Potomac Valley of West Virginia in Romney.

About 40 men, representing eight different counties, spent the day evaluating renewal natural resources programs in West Virginia.

The conferees told State Senator Dayton R. Stemple of Philippi that they favor a number of changes in the generally archaic laws governing water rights and water uses to provide for a more efficient use of the state's water supply.

Heads Subcommittee

Senator Stemple is chairman of an interim subcommittee on natural resources. He presided at the afternoon sessions of the conference. He was accompanied to Romney by Marlin Luger, a professor in the College of Law of West Virginia University. Lugar will assist Stemple in drafting any legislation agreed upon.

The Romney meeting was one of four or five being conducted at different points in the state.

During the luncheon meeting yesterday at the New Century Hotel R. L. Baker of Fabius, Hardy County, discussed the accomplishments of the Potomac Valley Soil Conservation District since its organization about 1940. He presented a number of statistics to show the progress in soil conservation that has been made.

Recreation Cited

John C. Ailes of Romney discussed the relationship between natural resources and recreation in the course of a 10-minute talk during the afternoon session. He observed that various soil and water conservation measures also benefit the recreation picture because they help provide better and more extensive recreation facilities.

He also touched on the economic advantages of improved recreation facilities which encourage more tourists to visit the area with their flow of new money into a community.

Other speakers in the afternoon session were George R. Heidrich, Charles Town, chairman of the Eastern Panhandle Soil Conservation District· Clyde Bonar of Burlington, president of the West Virginia Farm Bureau; Mayor John C. Freeland of Keyser; J. Leslie Cain of Berkeley Springs, and James L. Creasy, Martinsburg, superintendent of Berkeley County schools.

State Senator Ralph J. Bean of Moorefield spoke at the morning session. Ralph Haines of Romney presided at the luncheon.

Teachers Group Proposes Action On Pension Plan

Legislative proposals which would improve the pensions for Allegany County teachers will be discussed at the meeting of the Allegany County Teachers Association at 7:30 p. m. January 12 at Allegany High School.

John D. Kelly, association president, has urged in a form letter to all members that at least 80 per cent of the membership attend the next meeting.

The association's legislative chairman would propose the introduction of a bill at the next session of the General Assembly calling for the appropriation of about $200,000 to correct annuity discrepancies for all state employes.

Kelly's letter notes that $500,000 already has been added to the Social Security bill to include Baltimore City teachers, whose retirement system already has been corrected.

The County association feels that the state should appropriate $250,000 so that all teachers and state employes' retirement pay would equal one-seventieth of their average annual compensation multiplied by the total number of years of service.

Forest Fire Danger Is Increasing

Due to the lack of rainfall during recent weeks, says William H. Johnson, district forester, there is considerable forest fire danger.

Johnson pointed out that with continued droughts and high winds, the danger could become critical. The cooperation of the public is asked by the State Department of Forests and Parks, Johnson added.

However, time restrictions as to the burning of debris are not enforced until March 1. If the public has debris to burr on private property at this time, Johnson said, the following precautionary measures should be taken:

Plow or construct a fire line at least 10 feet wide around the area to be burned.

Have sufficient help and adequate tools on hand to prevent fire from escaping.

Keep a watchman at the burning operation until the last spark is out.

Although last year's final statistics are not yet available the number of fires and acreage burned were among the smallest in the history of the department.

This, Johnson added, was realized by the cooperation and vigilance of residents of the area who were burning over their land.

Surplus Foods Distribution Begins Monday

Distribution of surplus food for January will begin Monday of next week at 9 a. m. in Westernport, according to Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, in charge.

On Tuesday, distribution will be made in Barton; Wednesday at Lonaconing; Thursday at Midland and Friday at Frostburg.

The following week, the distribution will begin at Clarysville on Monday; Mt. Savage on Tuesday; Cresaptown, Wednesday, and Cumberland on Thursday and Friday. The time in each community begins at 9 a. m. and continues until noon except at Lonaconing and Frostburg, where closing hour is 1 p. m. and at Cumberland where distribution ends at 2 p. m. each day.

This month, surplus commodities include butter, cheese, dried milk, shortening, flour and corn meal.

Blood Donors Needed Here Next Week

The Allegany County Red Cross Chapter begins its fifth year of the local blood bank program next week, when the bloodmobile unit visits Cumberland on Monday and Frostburg on Tuesday.

The bloodmobile made its first visit here on January 21, 1952, and has been making regular monthly visits since that time.

Red Cross officials say that every effort to meet the quotas of 150 pints at each community must be made. More volunteers are needed, and many walk-ins are called for. During the past two months, Cumberland hospitals have drawn from the blood bank more blood than has been donated here, and this quantity must be replaced to keep the project going for any emergency.

The bloodmobile will be at the Eagles Home from noon until 6 p. m. Monday and at the American Legion in Frostburg on Tuesday from noon until 6 p. m.

Grand Jury Will Return On Monday

The Allegany County Circuit Court grand jury will return for its second week of activity Monday at 9:15 a. m.

Yesterday afternoon when the grand jury reported it had not completed its deliberations after four days of work, Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris recessed the grand jury until 9:15 a. m. Monday.

Charles L. Kopp, retired superintendent of Allegany County public schools, is the grand jury foreman.

Kiwanis Changes Presidents

Mortimer C. Schaidt, new president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, is shown receiving his gavel from Bernard G. Renz, whom he succeeds. Left to right are G. William Eichner, re-elected treasurer: Renz, J. Norman Graham of Taneytown, district Kiwanis lieutenant-governor, who installed the officers; Schaidt and William J. Edwards, who continues to serve as secretary.

Dry Spell Ties All-Time State Drought Record

Farmers Facing Serious Problems

[By The Associated Press]

Dry to the core, Maryland waited Saturday for the number of continuous days without rain or snow to stretch into a new record.

The all-time record of 29 days without measurable precipitation was established between Oct. 11 and Nov. 8, 1874. That record was tied today and likely will be broken Sunday.

Most of Maryland hasn't had any measurable amount of moisture since Dec. 9.

George Brancato, meteorologist-in-charge of the U. S Weather Bureau at Friendship Airport near Baltimore, said Friday: "If we go one more day, we will have had the longest dry spell at any time in any year since we began keeping records.

He said no precipitation is expected at least until Monday.

Last month, Brancato said, was the driest December on record. Preliminary figures show that Maryland had an average of only .39 of an inch of precipitation—rain or snow. Normal for the month is 3.17 inches.

Last month's average, Brancato said, was exactly one-half of the previous lowest average of .78 of an inch in December 1896.

Garrett Had Some Rain

Only Garrett, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester recorded more than one inch of rainfall last month, the meteorologist said. One weather station near Frederick reported no measurable precipitation at all.

By measurable precipitation, the Weather Bureau means .01 of an inch or more. Anything less is called a "trace."

Brancato said the dry spell has been caused by the large amount of cold air which has held sway over Maryland during the last two months. Cold air is normally dry air, and there have been no major storms developing in this area.

Oddly, the long dry spell coming at the beginning of winter has gone almost unnoticed by the vast majority of Marylanders. With lawn and garden watering at a virtual halt, car washing at a minimum and even bathing and drinking at their lowest points of the year, consumption of water is seasonably low.

Despite the dry spell, there have been no water restrictions in the cities of the State. Baltimore officials recently reported the city's reservoirs nearly full.

Farmers Face Problems

But many rural folk have come fully to grips with the drought. And Brancato warned there is danger if the dry spell continues much longer.

"There has been no replenishing of the sub-soil moisture," he said. "It has been depleted to the point where it was during the drought of last summer. The water sources of the farmer are slowly going dry."

However, he said, a normal amount of rainfall through spring would alleviate the situation.

Particularly hard-pressed by the dry spell are farmers in west central Maryland. Rural residents have two drought worries, a lack of water for livestock and other needs, and a lack of protection for winter wheat.

Firemen Raise Money

One Washington County water hauler, Maurice Martin, has delivered 25,000 gallons of water on some recent days to farmers whose wells, cisterns or springs have dried up.

Volunteer firemen at Williamsport have paid off nearly one-fourth of the purchase price of a thousand-gallon tank wagon, bought for a water source in fighting rural fires, by using it to haul water to farms.

The alternating cold spells and thaws without a protective snow cover have caused farmers to fear that heaving of the earth would damage roots of winter wheat.

Mark Miller, Washington County agent, said the situation "isn't good," but he hasn't observed severe damage to the wheat crop so far. The county had only .13 of an inch of rain during December.

Cattle Meeting Planned Feb. 9

Allegany County beef and dairy cattle owners are being reminded by County Agent Joseph M. Steger that the annual dairy and livestock feeding program meeting will be conducted at 10 a.m. Thursday, February 9, at the LaVale Fire Hall.

Details are being completed on the program which calls for a number of excellent speakers to be here. Steger is writing to county farmers now so that they will make plans to come to the LaVale Fire Hall February 9.

Such meetings have been conducted here by the State Extension Service each winter for at least 10 years.
